Defies Federal Court Order

Wallace Says He'll Block University Desegregation

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, thrusting state sovereignty into the path of federal authority, has set out to block court-ordered desegregation of the University of Alabama.

The youthful Alabama governor laid his constitutional authority on the line Tuesday after the university board of trustees had agreed to admit two Negroes and U.S. Dist. Judge H. Hobart Grooms refused to delay the June 10 enrollment.

"I embody the sovereignty of this state," declared Wallace, a veteran of battles with the federal government, "and I will be present to bar the entrance of any Negro who seeks to enroll at the university."

Thus, Wallace embarked upon the same course followed last fall by Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi who barred Negro James H. Meredith from the University of Mississippi. Meredith later enrolled behind federal forces.

Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, a political foe of Wallace, warned defiance of federal court orders may lead to violence. He said those who defy such orders may be to blame if federal troops are used in Alabama as they were in Mississippi.

On other fronts:

— The simmering Birmingham racial situation remained quiet as 3,000 federal troops stood by at military bases and more than 1,300 state, county and city law enforcement officers kept watch over a 28-block area where rioting broke out May 12.

— A hearing was scheduled during the day in federal court on a request for reinstatement of more than 1,000 Negro pupils suspended or expelled from Birmingham schools for taking part in antisegregation demonstrations.

900 Negro Students Released From Jail

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Racial unrest showed no sign of subsiding here today as more than 900 Negro students were released from jail to the custody of North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College.

But some progress was reported in racial disputes elsewhere in the state.

A court order issued at the suggestion of Gov. Terry Sanford virtually cleared three temporary jails set up in Greensboro to house more than 1,200 persons, held on various charges resulting from racial demonstrations.

More than 1,500 persons have been arrested during the last week.

The college students were placed in custody of Dr. L. C. Dowdy, acting president of the state-supported college. They were ordered to appear in court for trials beginning Thursday.

Included among those released were 162 persons—including several juveniles—arrested during demonstrations Tuesday night. Approximately 300 other demonstrators, mostly Bennett College students, remained in jail.

Mayor Acts To End 2-2 Council Tie

Hutton Fails In Bid To Have Check On Signers For Ballot

Chester Mayor Harry Abrams voted to break a 2-2 Council deadlock Tuesday night and thus scheduled a special election June 11 on the city's $6 "head tax," which was given final approval unanimously by Council last night.

Councilman Wayne Hutton had proposed that no election be held until the petitions filed by residents seeking a ballot on the tax be checked to determine if they represented 30 per cent of the qualified voters.

900 Sign Petition

Petitions bearing some 900 names were accepted by Council at the meeting May 7, the signers requesting a vote on the four taxes on individual adult citizens — $3 for police service, $1.50 for street lighting and 75 cents each for the City Park and fire department.

Council at that meeting approved first reading of two amendments to the tax ordinances, one permitting public notice of the taxes through any newspaper story rather than through legal advertising and the other setting the petition qualifications at 10 per cent of the voters.

State Code Cited

Hutton last night declared the state code calls for 30 per cent of the voters to sign for a referendum, not 10 per cent as proposed by Council.

The petitions submitted May 7 would represent about 40 per cent of the city voters, if all signers were qualified voters.

Councilman Donald Hissam said, "We accepted the petitions at the last meeting." Hutton replied that Council didn't know if all the signatures were valid. If they weren't, he added, they could be returned for additional signatures.

Clerk Roy Cashdollar pointed out the petitions had legally been accepted. "I wasn't at the last session," Cashdollar said, "but I can't understand why Council voted not to check the petitions."

Defeat For Kennedy

Farmers Reject U.S. Wheat Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wheat growers have voted strongly against stricter controls on their crops, capping the biggest campaign ever waged in the American farmlands with a stinging defeat for the Kennedy administration and its farm policies.

County Votes 'No,' Hancock In Favor

Columbiana County farmers voted overwhelmingly against tighter controls in the national wheat referendum but Hancock County farmers favored the President's proposal.

Earl Lora, manager of the Columbiana County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee at Lisbon, said 1,518 votes were cast with 1,311 opposed and 179 in favor and 28 more being challenged.

Mrs. Norma Murray, manager of the Hancock County ASC, said at New Cumberland 48 of 60 eligible farmers voted, with 32 favoring and 16 opposed. The vote was the highest ever for the referendum.

The administration had thrown its prestige and strength behind its program in a battle against farm groups demanding less rather than more government in agriculture.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman had predicted that defeat of the plan would result in "chaotic" wheat market conditions.

The extent of the defeat in Tuesday's referendum was measured by the fact that the administration proposal failed to muster a simple majority of the votes. Approval by at least 66.7 per cent of those voting was required for adoption.

Complete returns gave 547,151 for the plan and 596,943 against. The vote in favor was 47.8 per cent of the total—far short of that required. This was the first time in 13 referenda that a wheat control program had been rejected.

A record outpouring of votes—particularly in the non-commercial wheat areas east of the Mississippi—overwhelmed the favorable votes cast in a small portion of the commercial wheat states of the Great Plains and Pacific Northwest.

In only one region—the southeast—did the administration plan get a heavy majority. This region produces relatively little wheat but has become accustomed to rigid controls on its cotton, tobacco and peanut crops.

The national vote turnout among the farmers was lower than expected, but the total of more than 1.13 million was more than double the number voting in any previous wheat referendum.

The plan would have required farmers to reduce 1964 crop plantings 10 per cent from this year. It would have supported 80 per cent of the normal production on allotted acres at $2 a bushel and the remainder at $1.30. Farmers would have gotten payments totaling around $300 million for idled wheat land.

The effect of the referendum is to eliminate all wheat acreage and marketing controls and to reduce price supports—now at $2—to about $1.25. But supports would be limited to growers making the 10 per cent reduction in plantings.

But there was the possibility Congress would enact a new program more satisfactory to farmers.

The defeat carried many personal and political implications. It gave credence to administration critics that farmers want less federal interference rather than more. Freeman had staked his prestige on the contention that

Suffers New, Severe Setback

Pope Curtails Activities On Orders From Doctor

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII, reported suffering from a new and severe setback in the illness that felled him last fall, curtailed his activities today on doctor's orders.

The 81-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff canceled his regular weekly general audience in St. Peter's Basilica on short notice. However, he appeared at his apartment window to bless a crowd of 15,000 in St. Peter's Square below.

The Pope stood at the third-floor window about three minutes. Seen through binoculars, he appeared very pale. But his voice, carried through microphones, was vibrant and strong as he gave his blessing. He paused twice to clear his throat.

The audience in the Basilica was canceled 40 minutes before it was to have started.

The cancellation was the first since last November, when a similar weekly audience was called off at the last minute.

A day later the Vatican announced that the Pope was suffering from a stomach disorder and enemia. The exact nature of the ailment never was disclosed. There have been reports that the Pope was suffering from cancer or an ulcer.

The Pope has appeared to recover although there have been reports of relapses. Reports circulated Tuesday that he became ill Monday night, but Vatican officials said they knew of no relapse.

Later Tuesday the Vatican announced the pontiff would begin a nine-day spiritual retreat—or novena—on Ascension Day Thursday.

Vatican officials said the novena is in preparation for Pentecost Sunday, June 2. But it was also said at the Vatican that the retreat would enable the Pope to have a complete rest.

Space Hero Due Ticker Tape Parade

The slim, quiet-spoken spaceman comes fresh from the cheers of thousands in Washington, the praise of President Kennedy and the thunderous applause of a joint meeting of Congress.

About 2,000 guests have been invited by the city to a luncheon honoring the 36-year-old Air Force major, who blasted off to fame last week with his 22-orbit space flight.

Cooper concluded his eight-minute address to the joint meeting of the Senate and House Tuesday with a prayer he composed on his 17th orbit, spinning high over the Indian Ocean, and recited into a tape recorder.

It was a prayer of thanks for "all these startling and wonderful things that You have created," and a prayer for help "that we may shape our lives to be much better Christians" and "that we may show the world that a democracy really can compete and still is able to do things in a big way. . . ."

3 Of Midland Area Suffer Injuries In River Rd. Collision

Three 19-year-old Midland area youths were injured late Tuesday afternoon when their auto skidded and struck an oncoming car on the River Rd., then rebounded into a guardrail and a utility pole, police reported.

All released after treatment at City Hospital, the injured were:

Lynn Alan Goyak, son of Joseph Goyak, 548 Penn Ave., Midland, who suffered cuts of the right arm and lower lip and abrasions of both knees and an elbow; George Fisher, son of John Fisher of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1, abrasions of the right cheek and both legs, and William Parson, son of John Parson of 14-B, Midland Heights, cuts of the right eye and lips and both knees and possible fracture of the jaw.

The spectacular crash at 3:51 near the east end of the River Rd. involved an eastbound 1954 two-door sedan driven by Goyak and westbound 1957 four-door sedan driven by Mary Carroll, 59, of 630 River Rd., officers said.

The local woman was passing a bakery truck which was halted near the edge of the road, officers said.

The two motorists and the driver of the bakery truck were cited as an aftermath of the collision, investigated by Patrolmen L. E.

Council At Wellsville Airs Gas Rate Again

Wellsville Council held a caucus session with Harold Sneddon of the Ohio Valley Gas Co. following the regular meeting Tuesday night to discuss a proposed rate increase being sought by the utility.

Council turned down an offer made by the utility in January. Two weeks ago the members agreed to meet in caucus with Sneddon to discuss the matter further.

It was reported "nothing was accomplished" at last night's session. No future meetings were set.

NEW CUMBERLAND — Arthur (Jack) Watson has withdrawn as a candidate for mayor in the biennial nonpartisan election June 11, leaving a field of Samuel Minesinger, Welty Vulgamore Jr., Mrs. John P. Jones and James Cullen. Mayor Albert Fuccy is not seeking re-election.

Council Spurred

Wellsville Eyes Wage Tax Plan

Efforts to revive a wage tax proposal in Wellsville were made by Councilman Donald Miller, finance chairman, at a meeting of City Council Tuesday night.

The proposal was made by Miller in August 1962, and in September he offered it in the form of a motion but it died for lack of a second.

NEAR THE end of the meeting, Miller asked each member of Council to check all the city's rolling stock in the near future.

The city doesn't have the proper equipment to operate, he said. "I am not asking that you do this overnight. But take a look at the equipment before July. Then let's see if we can't bring up something in the form of an income tax."

By doing this in July, Miller, went on to explain, it would give residents time to circulate petitions and have the issue placed on the ballot at the November general election. The vote would show whether or not they favor such a tax, he said.

"I don't want to shove this down their throats, but I believe by next year we will be without the proper equipment in the city, and this will be pretty bad," he commented.

MILLER explained the refuse collection trucks are getting older and more dilapidated. He said there is no money in the general fund to purchase any new equipment.

At this point, Mrs. Mary Rahter, Council president, raised the question as to whether members should check the equipment in a group. Miller said it could be done either way.

He said the proposal was his own personal recommendation and not that of the finance committee as a whole. "I don't like to pay an income tax any better than the next persons, but it is needed," he said.

COUNCILMAN William Stroble spoke against the proposal. He commented he opposed it before and still is against it. He said the city should put the refuse department on a paying basis so new equipment can be obtained. The same should be done with the water and other departments, Stroble said.

If the tax goes in, the first

Cooper Issues Statement On City Income Tax Case

It was Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate's decision that the municipality would not go to the State Supreme Court in further litigaiton over a vote on the city income tax issue, Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper said today in a statement explaining his position on the question.

The solicitor's statement was issued after the auditor announced Tuesday the city would not seek to overturn a decision of the 7th District Court of Appeals that ordered Applegate to certify to the County Election Board petitions filed by Trades and Labor Council last August seeking a vote on the question.

The city had questioned the validity of some of the petitions in actions before the Common Pleas Court at Lisbon and the district court, but was overruled in both instances.

Cooper's statement upheld the auditor's right to question the petitions and argued against "the cry. . .that the constitutional rights of the people have been invaded."

The text of his statement follows:

"Auditor Applegate has decided that he does not wish to appeal the decision of the Court of Appeals in the income tax petitions case. This is his decision and I will respect his wishes, although there are points in the decision that I feel the Supreme Court should be given an opportunity to clarify. I recognize, however, that there are other matters to be taken into consideration in making such a decision and therefore no appeal will be made.

"When Mr. Applegate rejected the petitions presented to him in 1962, and during the pendency of this case, there was and has been criticism of his action by the opponents of the income tax. This indicates a lack of knowledge of

An East End man arrested after a police chase Friday afternoon entered not guilty pleas today in Municipal Court on two bad check charges, waived preliminary hearings and asked to be bound over to the Grand Jury.

He is Austin Wayne Hoschar, 35, of Mulberry St., accused of "uttering and publishing" a $40 check on May 6 and issuing a fraudulent check for $127 on May 13. Judge Samuel M. Chertoff continued Hoschar's $3,000 bond.

A continuance was granted until May 29 at 10 a. m. in a third charge filed against Hoschar today by Police Capt. Robert Pyle, alleging that he used a "false and fictitious name" in applying for a driver's license. His bond was set at $200.

Hoschar was arraigned on affidavits signed by Capt. Pyle and Everett Holland, a salesman at Bendheim's Shoe Store on E. 6th St. Capt. Pyle signed the charge aleging Hoschar issued a fraudulent check for $127 and Holland signed the affidavit alleging "uttering and publishing" a $40 check.

Farmers would have gotten payments totaling around $300 million for idled wheat land.

The effect of the referendum is to eliminate all wheat acreage and marketing controls and to reduce price supports—now at $2—to about $1.25. But supports would be limited to growers making the 10 per cent reduction in plantings.

But there was the possibility Congress would enact a new program more satisfactory to farmers.

The defeat carried many personal and political implications. It gave credence to administration critics that farmers want less federal interference rather than more. Freeman had staked his prestige on the contention that the administration had thrown its prestige and strength behind its program in a battle against farm groups demanding less rather than more government in agriculture.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman had predicted that defeat of the plan would result in "chaotic" wheat market conditions.

The extent of the defeat in Tuesday's referendum was measured by the fact that the administration proposal failed to muster a simple majority of the votes. Approval by at least 66.7 per cent of those voting was required for adoption.

Complete returns gave 547,151 for the plan and 596,943 against.

County Votes 'No,' Hancock In Favor

Columbiana County farmers voted overwhelmingly against tighter controls in the national wheat referendum but Hancock County farmers favored the President's proposal.

Earl Lora, manager of the Columbiana County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee at Lisbon, said 1,518 votes were cast with 1,311 opposed and 179 in favor and 28 more being challenged.

Mrs. Norma Murray, manager of the Hancock County ASC, said at New Cumberland 48 of 60 eligible farmers voted, with 32 favoring and 16 opposed. The vote was the highest ever for the referendum.

Suffers New, Severe Setback

Pope Curtails Activities On Orders From Doctor

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII, reported suffering from a new and severe setback in the illness that felled him last fall, curtailed his activities today on doctor's orders.

The 81-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff canceled his regular weekly general audience in St. Peter's Basilica on short notice. However, he appeared at his apartment window to bless a crowd of 15,000 in St. Peter's Square below.

The Pope stood at the third-floor window about three minutes. Seen through binoculars, he appeared very pale. But his voice, carried through microphones, was vibrant and strong as he gave his blessing. He paused twice to clear his throat.

The audience in the Basilica was canceled 40 minutes before it was to have started.

The cancellation was the first since last November, when a similar weekly audience was called off at the last minute.

A day later the Vatican announced that the Pope was suffering from a stomach disorder and enemia. The exact nature of the ailment never was disclosed. There have been reports that the Pope was suffering from cancer or an ulcer.

The Pope has appeared to recover although there have been reports of relapses. Reports circulated Tuesday that he became ill Monday night, but Vatican officials said they knew of no relapse.

Later Tuesday the Vatican announced the pontiff would begin a nine-day spiritual retreat—or novena—on Ascension Day Thursday.

Vatican officials said the novena is in preparation for Pentecost Sunday, June 2. But it was also said at the Vatican that the retreat would enable the Pope to have a complete rest.

Space Hero Due Ticker Tape Parade

The slim, quiet-spoken spaceman comes fresh from the cheers of thousands in Washington, the praise of President Kennedy and the thunderous applause of a joint meeting of Congress.

About 2,000 guests have been invited by the city to a luncheon honoring the 36-year-old Air Force major, who blasted off to fame last week with his 22-orbit space flight.

Cooper concluded his eight-minute address to the joint meeting of the Senate and House Tuesday with a prayer he composed on his 17th orbit, spinning high over the Indian Ocean, and recited into a tape recorder.

It was a prayer of thanks for "all these startling and wonderful things that You have created," and a prayer for help "that we may shape our lives to be much better Christians" and "that we may show the world that a democracy really can compete and still is able to do things in a big way. . . ."

Skidding Car Hits Another; 3 Youths Hurt

3 Of Midland Area Suffer Injuries In River Rd. Collision

Three 19-year-old Midland area youths were injured late Tuesday afternoon when their auto skidded and struck an oncoming car on the River Rd., then rebounded into a guardrail and a utility pole, police reported.

All released after treatment at City Hospital, the injured were:

Lynn Alan Goyak, son of Joseph Goyak, 548 Penn Ave., Midland, who suffered cuts of the right arm and lower lip and abrasions of both knees and an elbow; George Fisher, son of John Fisher of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1, abrasions of the right cheek and both legs, and William Parson, son of John Parson of 14-B, Midland Heights, cuts of the right eye and lips and both knees and possible fracture of the jaw.

The spectacular crash at 3:51 near the east end of the River Rd. involved an eastbound 1954 two-door sedan driven by Goyak and westbound 1957 four-door sedan driven by Mary Carroll, 59, of 630 River Rd., officers said.

The local woman was passing a bakery truck which was halted near the edge of the road, officers said.

The two motorists and the driver of the bakery truck were cited as an aftermath of the collision, investigated by Patrolmen L. E.

Council At Wellsville Airs Gas Rate Again

Wellsville Council held a caucus session with Harold Sneddon of the Ohio Valley Gas Co. following the regular meeting Tuesday night to discuss a proposed rate increase being sought by the utility.

Council turned down an offer made by the utility in January. Two weeks ago the members agreed to meet in caucus with Sneddon to discuss the matter further.

It was reported "nothing was accomplished" at last night's session. No future meetings were set.

Candidate Withdraws

NEW CUMBERLAND — Arthur (Jack) Watson has withdrawn as a candidate for mayor in the biennial non partisan election June 11, leaving a field of Samuel Minesinger, Welty Vulgamore Jr., Mrs. John P. Jones and James Cullen. Mayor Albert Fuccy is not seeking re-election.

Council Spurred

Wellsville Eyes Wage Tax Plan

Efforts to revive a wage tax proposal in Wellsville were made by Councilman Donald Miller, finance chairman, at a meeting of City Council Tuesday night.

The proposal was made by Miller in August 1962, and in September he offered it in the form of a motion but it died for lack of a second.

NEAR THE end of the meeting, Miller asked each member of Council to check all the city's rolling stock in the near future.

The city doesn't have the proper equipment to operate, he said. "I am not asking that you do this overnight. But take a look at the equipment before July. Then let's see if we can't bring up something in the form of an income tax."

By doing this in July, Miller, went on to explain, it would give residents time to circulate petitions and have the issue placed on the ballot at the November general election. The vote would show whether or not they favor such a tax, he said.

"I don't want to shove this down their throats, but I believe by next year we will be without the proper equipment in the city, and this will be pretty bad," he commented.

MILLER explained the refuse collection trucks are getting older and more dilapidated. He said there is no money in the general fund to purchase any new equipment.

At this point, Mrs. Mary Rahter, Council president, raised the question as to whether members should check the equipment in a group. Miller said it could be done either way.

He said the proposal was his own personal recommendation and not that of the finance committee as a whole. "I don't like to pay an income tax any better than the next persons, but it is needed," he said.

COUNCILMAN William Stroble spoke against the proposal. He commented he opposed it before and still is against it. He said the city should put the refuse department on a paying basis so new equipment can be obtained. The same should be done with the water and other departments, Stroble said.

If the tax goes in, the first

Auditor's Decision Cited

Cooper Issues Statement On City Income Tax Case

It was Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate's decision that the municipality would not go to the State Supreme Court in further litigaiton over a vote on the city income tax issue, Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper said today in a statement explaining his position on the question.

The solicitor's statement was issued after the auditor announced Tuesday the city would not seek to overturn a decision of the 7th District Court of Appeals that ordered Applegate to certify to the County Election Board petitions filed by Trades and Labor Council last August seeking a vote on the question.

The city had questioned the validity of some of the petitions in actions before the Common Pleas Court at Lisbon and the district court, but was overruled in both instances.

Cooper's statement upheld the auditor's right to question the petitions and argued against "the cry. . .that the constitutional rights of the people have been invaded."

The text of his statement follows:

"Auditor Applegate has decided that he does not wish to appeal the decision of the Court of Appeals in the income tax petitions case. This is his decision and I will respect his wishes, although there are points in the decision that I feel the Supreme Court should be given an opportunity to clarify. I recognize, however, that there are other matters to be taken into consideration in making such a decision and therefore no appeal will be made.

"When Mr. Applegate rejected the petitions presented to him in 1962, and during the pendency of this case, there was and has been criticism of his action by the opponents of the income tax. This indicates a lack of knowledge of

Denials Filed By Suspect In Check Counts

An East End man arrested after a police chase Friday afternoon entered not guilty pleas today in Municipal Court on two bad check charges, waived preliminary hearings and asked to be bound over to the Grand Jury.

He is Austin Wayne Hoschar, 35, of Mulberry St., accused of "uttering and publishing" a $40 check on May 6 and issuing a fraudulent check for $127 on May 13. Judge Samuel M. Chertoff continued Hoschar's $3,000 bond.

A continuance was granted until May 29 at 10 a. m. in a third charge filed against Hoschar today by Police Capt. Robert Pyle, alleging that he used a "false and fictitious name" in applying for a driver's license. His bond was set at $200.

Hoschar was arraigned on affidavits signed by Capt. Pyle and Everett Holland, a salesman at Bendheim's Shoe Store on E. 6th St. Capt. Pyle signed the charge aleging Hoschar issued a fraudulent check for $127 and Holland signed the affidavit alleging "uttering and publishing" a $40 check.

Chester

proposed the petitions be checked by county election officials.

On Hutton's motion last night, to hold no election unless 30 per cent of the qualified voters are represented on the petitions, Councilmen Hissam and Carl Graham were opposed while Hutton and Councilman Donald Chaney supported the bid.

With Councilman Charles Kology absent, Mayor Abrams cast the deciding vote, which killed the motion.

Hissam then made a motion, seconded by Chaney, to hold the election June 11, and it passed unanimously.

Vote At City Hall

The City Hall will be the only voting place, and the poll will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. Each councilman will name two workers, making a staff of 10 for the balloting.

Each of the four tax ordinances will be on a separate ballot, thus permitting voters to decide on the individual taxes, it was explained.

Council gave final approval to the four taxes last night, along with the amendment concerning the public notice.

No vote was taken on the proposed 10 per cent per voter qualification for the petitions. The ordinances themselves call for a 30 per cent minimum.

Issues Statement

Hutton issued a written statement concerning minimum signatures on the petitions. It read in part:

"I bring the point up at this time because I swore an oath when taking office to uphold the state laws as well as the city laws and to represent the people as a whole, not pressure groups or those with selfish interests.

"I feel the city has long been run by pressure groups, and I think that is the reason for our slow progress.

"I am very much interested in the city and I feel it my duty to exercise the rights of a councilman — if I do less, I have let the people down...Therefore, I feel we should follow the state code when enacting these ordinances."

Liquor Tax Raised

In other action, Council approved an ordinance increasing the tax on liquor to 3 per cent as recently authorized by the West Virginia legislature. The city had been collecting 2 per cent.

Cashdollar read a leter from the attorney general's office concerning the legal closing time for taverns, which had been discussed at the May 7.

The letter emphasized the state liquor regulations called for opening and closing hours to be on Daylight Saving Time, and that beer cannot legally be sold after midnight DST.

Council approved a resolution in line with the state code permitting water shutoffs for sewer customers who are delinquent in payment of sewer bills.

Will Seek Hearing

Solicitor William Ingram reported he plans to request a hearing before the Public Service Commission on the proposed new water rates for the town, adding it will take about six weeks before a hearing date can be set.

Chaney reported considerable amount of trash and garbage is being thrown into Middle Run Creek and the area should be policed to apprehend violators. It was pointed out much of the area is outside the city limits.

Mayor Abrams said he will direct policing of the area in the city. It was reported County Health Department officials will inspect the sites today.

School Ownership Aired

Discussion was held on the ownership of the present Central School at Indiana Ave. and 3rd St., which is to be abandoned this year.

Solicitor Ingram said the property was originally owned by the Chester Board of Education, an organization now defunct, and with the transfer of students to the new Chester school, the property will revert to the city.

He was asked to check the ownership of the Washington School, also to be abandoned by the Hancock County Board of Education.

The solicitor and Cashdollar were requested to check on the amount of money withheld from the annual city levy order by county officials for delinquent taxes.

Would Withhold 5%

The regulation calls for 5 per cent to be withheld, or about $1,106 of the present levy, but some $2,000 has been withheld.

Discussion was held on cleaning out a section of 8-inch water line leading to the Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co., where pressure has been below normal. The water committee is to confer with representatives of two pipe cleaning concerns about the problem.

To Expand Defenses

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australia plans to spend an additional $442 million in the next four years for expanded air, sea and land defenses.

Chester

proposed the petitions be checked by county election officials.

On Hutton's motion last night, to hold no election unless 30 per cent of the qualified voters are represented on the petitions, Councilmen Hissam and Carl Graham were opposed while Hutton and Councilman Donald Chaney supported the bid.

With Councilman Charles Kology absent, Mayor Abrams cast the deciding vote, which killed the motion.

Hissam then made a motion, seconded by Chaney, to hold the election June 11, and it passed unanimously.

Vote At City Hall

The City Hall will be the only voting place, and the poll will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. Each councilman will name two workers, making a staff of 10 for the balloting.

Each of the four tax ordinances will be on a separate ballot, thus permitting voters to decide on the individual taxes, it was explained.

Council gave final approval to the four taxes last night, along with the amendment concerning the public notice.

No vote was taken on the proposed 10 per cent per voter qualification for the petitions. The ordinances themselves call for a 30 per cent minimum.

Issues Statement

Hutton issued a written statement concerning minimum signatures on the petitions. It read in part:

"I bring the point up at this time because I swore an oath when taking office to uphold the state laws as well as the city laws and to represent the people as a whole, not pressure groups or those with selfish interests.

"I feel the city has long been run by pressure groups, and I think that is the reason for our slow progress.

"I am very much interested in the city and I feel it my duty to exercise the rights of a councilman — if I do less, I have let the people down...Therefore, I feel we should follow the state code when enacting these ordinances."

Liquor Tax Raised

In other action, Council approved an ordinance increasing the tax on liquor to 3 per cent as recently authorized by the West Virginia legislature. The city had been collecting 2 per cent.

Cashdollar read a leter from the attorney general's office concerning the legal closing time for taverns, which had been discussed at the May 7.

The letter emphasized the state liquor regulations called for opening and closing hours to be on Daylight Saving Time, and that beer cannot legally be sold after midnight DST.

Council approved a resolution in line with the state code permitting water shutoffs for sewer customers who are delinquent in payment of sewer bills.

Will Seek Hearing

Solicitor William Ingram reported he plans to request a hearing before the Public Service Commission on the proposed new water rates for the town, adding it will take about six weeks before a hearing date can be set.

Chaney reported considerable amount of trash and garbage is being thrown into Middle Run Creek and the area should be policed to apprehend violators. It was pointed out much of the area is outside the city limits.

Mayor Abrams said he will direct policing of the area in the city. It was reported County Health Department officials will inspect the sites today.

School Ownership Aired

Discussion was held on the ownership of the present Central School at Indiana Ave. and 3rd St., which is to be abandoned this year.

Solicitor Ingram said the property was originally owned by the Chester Board of Education, an organization now defunct, and with the transfer of students to the new Chester school, the property will revert to the city.

He was asked to check the ownership of the Washington School, also to be abandoned by the Hancock County Board of Education.

The solicitor and Cashdollar were requested to check on the amount of money withheld from the annual city levy order by county officials for delinquent taxes.

Would Withhold 5%

The regulation calls for 5 per cent to be withheld, or about $1,106 of the present levy, but some $2,000 has been withheld.

Discussion was held on cleaning out a section of 8-inch water line leading to the Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co., where pressure has been below normal. The water committee is to confer with representatives of two pipe cleaning concerns about the problem.

There's Still No Final Answer

The decision not to take the city income tax case higher than the Seventh District Court of Appeals is regrettable.

It eliminates an opportunity to have some of the puzzling legal aspects ruled upon by the Ohio Supreme Court and leaves the whole income tax controversy in a state of anti-climax. The Supreme Court's ruling would have been the final answer in questions related to the validity of petitions which are circulated to place initiative ordinances on the ballot.

The tax situation being what it is locally, the same questions well could be raised again, leading to another costly trip through the courts.

Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate undoubtedly was sincere in feeling the best interests of the city would be served in abiding by the opinion of the district court. But, as Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper observed in a statement, there were questions raised over the opinion of the district court that deserved a hearing before the Supreme Court.

The question turned principally on the regularity of four of the 16 petitions which Trades and Labor Council filed in August last year, seeking a vote on the tax. Guided by an opinion from the solicitor, the auditor ruled the four were irregular and declined to certify the question to the Election Board for a place on the ballot.

Trades Council then appealed to Common Pleas Court, which upheld the labor group's contention that the auditor should have eliminated only the faulty signatures, not the entire "part petitions". The city then took the case to the district court, which upheld the court at Lisbon.

That left the next step up to the city—to appeal to the high court or to comply with the order of the appellate court. The auditor's decision was to end the litigation.

There are other implications in the decision that will emerge as the general election nears. The fact the tax issue is on the ballot for the first time since 1961 may have more than passing influence on the outcome of the mayoralty election.

But supporters of the tax issue can take heart from the fact it lost by only a few more than 100 votes when tested last nearly two years ago.

Perhaps some of the improvements in municipal services the tax has made possible may sway enough votes to the other side of the column in November. Let's hope so!

Needed Planning

Civic and business leaders from Midland and area communities in Western Pennsylvania are acting wisely in pushing ahead with plans for a development program.

It is difficult to put on paper the potential of the district, but the Shippingport Bridge now under construction can't help but serve as a spur to even bigger and better things industrial-wise and in other directions.

Without planning such as that now under way, the benefits from the bridge and additional developments could be minimized. Only through a cooperative effort can the maximum potential be realized.

As a neighbor also actively involved in progressive planning, we suggest "full speed ahead" for the Midland area group. If we follow the theory of "one for all and all for one", the ultimate benefits could be many.

Blair Appointment Seems Logical

The Board of Education has acted quickly in naming a new superintendent of schools.

Elevated to the post is Paul H. Blair, assistant superintendent for nine years under the late Ralph W. Betts. The vote was 4 to 1, with Harry McConville the dissenter.

His objections were presented in a sensible manner and can't be dismissed lightly. Mr. McConville's sincerity and dedicated feeling on matters pertaining to the school system have been demonstrated time and again.

But the expressions of confidence in Mr. Blair by the other four members of the board also make sense. You can be sure they, too, carefully weighed the pros and cons before casting their votes and also had what they considered the best interests of the school system at heart.

With nine years of service as assistant superintendent behind him, it seems logical that Mr. Blair should have been given the opportunity to step up to the superintendent's post.

Probably no one realizes more than he the challenge he faces in taking over the reins of a school system the size of East Liverpool. We think he is capable of meeting this challenge.

New Leadership

New presidents were named by both the East Liverpool and Wellsville Junior Chambers of Commerce at meetings Monday night.

Our congratulations to Robert Brooks, Richard Kevan and others elected to posts in both organizations.

The Jaycees have been doing an outstanding job in both communities and undoubtedly will continue to do so under their new leaders.

Kremlin Tried Foreign Aid, Too

As every American child learns at its mother's knee, anything the Russians can do Americans can do better.

The Russians feel the same way. But they're beginning to have doubts about foreign aid. They can't outdo the United States.

United States News & World Report reveals in a roundup of aid statistics that the Communist bloc has poured $12 billion into foreign aid since World War II while the United States has spent $100 billion.

ONLY CUBA is still able to draw heavily on Communist help—about $1 million a day from Russia. Disenchantment has fallen upon the Kremlin.

Premier Khrushchev knows the Russian people are grumbling about the folly of helping other people when they need so many things themselves. The idea of buying friends for their side in the ideological war leaves them cold.

Their shrewd nature warned them that friendship could not be bought. They have heard stories of prodigal waste in the Soviet Union's foreign aid program—cement exposed to rain until it hardened in the sacks, engineering bobbles in Egypt and India, waste of food. But what hits the Kremlin and the Russian people hardest is the realization they cannot buy progress in the ideological war.

RUSSIANS learned that the people they hoped would be enchanted with Communism were turning against it. Russians were unable to hit it off with the natives. "The Ugly Russian" was as ugly as "The Ugly American."

Inside the government, critics of foreign aid laid it on hot and heavy.

The time had come, they argued, to make the gimme beneficiaries of Mother Russia stand on their own feet. If Uncle Sam wanted to bankrupt himself, all right. But Mother Russia, with no surpluses that needed to be got rid of, should know better.

Well at least it's good to know foreign aid looks about the same on the far side of the Iron Curtain as it looks on this side.

Water Buffalo, Etc.

By Truman Twill

It's invigorating to be back in girl-watching weather.

There were days, weeks and months last winter when a girl-watcher was too busy with survival to waste one of those long, searching looks even if the subject of the scrutiny had been willing to look back.

This brings up a point about girl-watching on which confused minds are not clear. They think of it as resembling rabbit-hunting, in which the object is to bag the game.

This is not necessarily true about girl-watching. A time comes in a man's life when sighting game is more important than one more demonstration of marksmanship.

Until this time comes, a man is not really a girl-watcher. He is not objective in his point of view. He is still shooting rabbits.

It is the difference between taking a picture of a water buffalo on a safari and killing the beast so its head can be displayed as a trophy. Is not the photographer the more sophisticated?

It takes a cool cat to go to so much trouble to admire the movements of a water buffalo.

It's nice to have the climate on the side of us girl-watchers again. It's a shock to find out that the girls we watch do not always wear galoshes on their feet and babushkas on their heads—to be reminded by reality that the female of the species does not stop with the A-line.

Rediscovery has been made the more delectable by high winds and misdemeanors. The disappearance of street cars robbed girl-watching of some of its one-time zest, but that first high step has been made up for by the low-bridge automobile.

There is no lack of opportunity to inspect delicacy of line and smoothness of coordination in all its delightful perfection. If it became necessary to protect this harmless sport from predators, attention should be directed to the possibility the thing might be overdone.

Girl-watchers who carry on their sport at bathing beaches reported last summer that too much was being made of a good thing—and that was last summer. This summer, extremists will have subtracted a few more threads from the sum total of what already was inadequate coverage.

The same possibility exists in off-the-beach costumes. Any shopping center reveals more acreage of exposed female flesh than a girl-watcher wants to see.

They can make too much of a good thing; that's the, ahem, size of it.

Some of us admirers of the water buffalo may reach the point where we will see one more and murmur, "Let's see if we can find a three-toed sloth, or a black leopard. After all, Charlie, when you've seen too much of half a dozen water buffalo you've had it."

Our eyes are open, now that girl-watching weather is back. After a long winter layoff, it is taking a while to get cranked up. But we're not fighting it—not us genuine girl-watchers.

We're like bird-watchers. We never give up. Feathers may get in our eyes and we get cricks in our necks, but we'll be at it as long as we can see. Even if we must wear trifocals.

In fact, even if we must wear blinders.

Tough Way To Conduct Business

Give The Actors A Great Big Hand

By Victor Riesel

Let's give the actors a great big hand. Literally.

Why? Because there isn't a cause or a charity drive which has not asked the performers of the land, members of Actors' Equity, to go on stage without pay. The players, whose union is 50 years old this month, are willing to give benefits but they frankly now want a few of their own in return.

Victor Riesel

They want no charity. They want the public's support in making the actor's life easier, more secure economically. They can't eat glamour—not even the most glamourous and famous of them.

My good friend Ralph Bellamy, Equity's president since 1952, sat recently with some colleagues, each of them stars of the theater. Someone suggested they jot down on pieces of paper their average earnings from work on stage and, drop the slips, unsigned, into a hat.

The average income of these performers who are famed household names was revealed as—$6,000 a year from live theater.

THAT IS, when actors work, of Equity's 13,500 members don't work too often.

There will be more opportunities in a few weeks when some 200 rural theaters brush out the straw—as many as 4,000 of Equity's members will find work on bucolic stages.

However, during the winter the total employment figure is nearer 2,000, including Broadway. But the summer trade pays them far less than $115 a week. Those in rural stock earn as little as $70 weekly, and those in New York's "off-Broadway" get $45 weekly in all seasons.

What do they want of the public and the government? Many things. They want some tax breaks.

Today, for example, if a writer takes three years to finish a book, he can spread its earnings over the entire period for income tax relief purposes. But if an actor invests cash and work in a career and gets a break the third year after earning very little previously, he can't spread anything but his waistline.

ACTORS' EQUITY wants the international theater exchange program revived. On our side it is dead. Next year not a single professional American theater company will be abroad under government auspices. However, the Soviets will be touring their Moscow Arts Theater, and other quality performing groups.

Actors' Equity also decries "the increased invasion of the American stage by foreign actors." They come in greater numbers these days. The Immigration Service is lax with visiting actors, says Equity.

Stars from abroad such as John Gielgud, Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh are welcomed. But the actors' union objects to those of lesser ability coming here, getting stage jobs "not on the basis of their talent, but mostly because they will work for less or because they appeal to the snobset that will flock to the theater to hear anyone—good or bad—from abroad."

On the other hand, very few American stage people are permitted to work in England. The London government protects its players. Americans who do land theater jobs in Britain are told to pack up and leave after a short time.

YET BRITISH actors stay on and on here, "gobbling up jobs" which could give our own young theater people their big chance—and a chance to eat regularly.

But the American actors are reasonable. They have a strong union. They have struck only twice since they were organized in 1913, during the days when Peggy Wood was a chorus girl and Eddie Foy, Sr., sang "I am the ghost of the troupe that was stranded in Peoria."

Equity was the first American union to agree to settle disputes arising from its contract by impartial arbitration.

Yet the public takes Equity's members for granted—as though acting was an obsession, a hobby, and not a profession chosen for life.

Actors' Equity's average male member is 37 years old; the average actress is 33. More than half of the performers are married. More than half of these have children. Most have two or more. Most have to live on the Broadway minimum.

These actors deserve a great big hand. Let's give it to them to help them win what they want from the government.

Miss Flora Pletcher was appointed to serve as bookkeeper and main office attendant at the YMCA.

TEN YEARS AGO — James D. McGeehan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent McGeehan of Grant St., was promoted to captain in Korea, where he served with the Air Force.

J. W. Newman was installed as president of the East Liverpool Chapter of the Barber Shop Society.

Milk prices in the district were cut from 22 cents a quart to 17 cents.

Letter To Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

I question whether the Police Department is entirely fair about parking in the city (East Liverpool).

Why do they pick on people for parking in the alleys? Why don't they get some of the No Parking and two-way zones taken care of? On Market St., between 5th and 6th, they have No Parking signs but sometimes you can't get through or make the turn.

Also, in front of the state liquor store and the junkyard in the East End. So why don't the city put parking meters in the alleys and let us use them so the police will have time to take care of other places that are more important?

I haven't gotten a parking ticket yet, but I have some friends who have.

Cuba Still Threat

By David Lawrence

On-Site Inspection Advocated

The greatest danger to the security of the United States today is in Cuba. There is enough Soviet military strength remaining on the island to launch an attack on this country.

David Lawrence

Yet the American people are being led to believe that Soviet military strength in Cuba is negligible and that an attack is as unthinkable as the missile build-up last year was supposed to be.

This was the reasoning used by government agencies in the autumn of 1962 to minimize the meaning of the Soviet troop movement and of the preliminary steps for the setting up of missile bases.

The most important official document on the Cuban situation has received only passing attention in the last 11 days from the American people. No announcement has been made of what the Kennedy administration intends to do about the facts that have just been disclosed.

There are no signs that the Soviet government is being prodded to get its troops, technicians and military equipment out of Cuba, or that any demand is being made to permit on-the-spot inspection in order to find out whether any missiles are still concealed inside the island.

THE LATEST WORD to the American people about the gravity of the Cuban situation comes not from Republican critics trying to make a political issue but from a subcommittee of the committee on armed services of the United States Senate headed by a Democratic chairman, Sen. John Stennis, of Mississippi. All seven members—4 Democrats and 3 Republicans—signed the unanimous report. It tells the unvarnished truth about what has happened and points out a lesson for the future. Here are some extracts from the report, dated May 9, which was written after hearing for many weeks secret testimony given by the intelligence agencies of the government, civilian and military:

"While a reasonably competent job was done in acquiring and collecting intelligence information and data, in retrospect it appears that several substantial errors were made by the intelligence agencies in the evaluation of the information and data which was accumulated. . . .

"Even though the intelligence community believes that all (strategic missiles) have been withdrawn, it is of the greatest urgency to determine whether or not strategic missiles are now concealed in Cuba.

"The criticality of this is illustrated by the fact that, assuming maximum readiness at pre-selected sites, with all equipment prelocated, the Soviet mobile medium-range — 1,100 miles — missiles could be made operational in a matter of hours. . . .

"SOME OTHER sources — primarily refugee and exile groups—estimate that as many as 40,000 Soviets are now in Cuba. Bearing in mind the lack of hard evidence on the question and the substantial underestimation of last fall, we conclude that no one in official United States circles can tell, with any real degree of confidence, haw many Russians are now in Cuba and we are of the opinion that the official 17,500 estimate is perhaps a minimum figure. . . .

"The evidence is overwhelming that Castro is supporting, spurring, aiding and abetting Communist revolutionary and subversive movements throughout the Western Hemisphere and that such activities present a grave and ominous threat to the peace and security of the Americas. . . .

"It is agreed that ironclad assurance of the complete absence of Soviet strategic missiles in Cuba can come only as a result of thorough, penetrating on-site inspection by reliable observers. . . .

"The importance of making every effort to ascertain the truth with respect to this matter cannot be overemphasized.

"The criticality of it can best be illustrated by the fact that the testimony established that, upon the assumption that all missiles and associated equipment and the necessary personnel were readily available near preselected sites in a state of complete readiness, mobile medium-range missiles could be made operational in a matter of hours.

"Thus, if these missiles and their associated equipment, remain in Cuba, the danger is clear and obvious. . . .

"ASSUMING without deciding that all strategic weapons have been withdrawn, there is the ever-present possibility of the stealthy reintroduction of strategic missiles and other offensive weapons, using the Soviet forces still in Cuba as camouflage and security for the activity. . . .

"Potentially, Cuba is a base from which the Soviets could interdict our vital air and sea lanes. It can now be used for the air, sea, and electronic surveillance of our military activities in the Southeast United States and the Caribbean.

"Cuba's airbases could serve as recovery air bases for planes launched against the United States from the Soviet Union."

This means that the range of certain Soviet military planes has been increased substantially. They need fly only one way in a surprise attack, drop bombs on the United States and land in Cuba.

Yet in the last few weeks nothing has been done to insist upon on-site inspection in Cuba by the United Nations or by any other agency.

The Kennedy administration has retreated on this point and only an informed public opinion in the United States and throughout the world can bring about an advance—to verify what has actually happened.

Demoted Russian

By Marguerite Higgins

WASHINGTON — Intriguing reports from Moscow suggest that Russia's great wartime hero, Marshal Georgi Zhukhov, is being brought back into favor to appease dissident Soviet military elements.

Conviction that such a group of military dissidents exists in Russia has gained currency in Washington as the result of the sensational Moscow treason trial of Col. Oleg Vladmirovich Penkovsky, who was sentenced to death for spying for the West.

The potentially vast ramifications of this trial are only beginning to emerge, experts say. Among the most important is evidence that the doomed colonel, far from being a mere lush who needed spy money to pay for vodka, mistresses, and song, has long been a politically motivated critic of the Kremlin.

Indeed Penkovsky has been punished before for his amazingly outspoken opposition to some Kremlin policies but apparently—and this is the most significant point of all—managed to make a comeback because of protection through the intervention of Soviet military men in high places.

This is where Marshal Zhukhov, after a long banishment on charges of Bonapartism, comes back in.

For as seen from here Khrushchev's position requires him to ferret out and get rid of those top military who gave Penkovsky protection. At the same time Khrushchev must proceed at a pace that will stop short of alienating the military.

The return of Marshal Zhukhov is pictured as one psychological cushion that will soften the blows Khrushchev must deal Penkovsky's pals.

Zhukhov was denigrated and removed from his post as Secretary of Defense in late 1957 on accusations of siding with the anti-Khrushchev clique led by Molotov.

The first authoritative sign that his fortunes were on the upswing was an article by the present Soviet defense minister that spoke factually, almost approvingly, of Marshal Zhukhov's contributions in World War II.

In the same article the author notably failed to echo recent Communist party claims that Premier Khrushchev played a hero's role in the Battle of Stalingrad.

According to Western diplomats, Moscow is currently rife with reports that Zhukov, despite his 68 years, may even be given some official post.

Khrushchev's caution in dealing with the dissident military is viewed as a significant example of the limitations of his power as compared to Stalin's.

Penkovsky's history as a leading dissident goes back, experts say, to a tour of duty in Ankara, Turkey, where he served as assistant military attache during 1955 and 1956.

There's Still No Final Answer

The decision not to take the city income tax case higher than the Seventh District Court of Appeals is regrettable.

It eliminates an opportunity to have some of the puzzling legal aspects ruled upon by the Ohio Supreme Court and leaves the whole income tax controversy in a state of anti-climax. The Supreme Court's ruling would have been the final answer in questions related to the validity of petitions which are circulated to place initiative ordinances on the ballot.

The tax situation being what it is locally, the same questions well could be raised again, leading to another costly trip through the courts.

Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate undoubtedly was sincere in feeling the best interests of the city would be served in abiding by the opinion of the district court. But, as Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper observed in a statement, there were questions raised over the opinion of the district court that deserved a hearing before the Supreme Court.

The question turned principally on the regularity of four of the 16 petitions which Trades and Labor Council filed in August last year, seeking a vote on the tax. Guided by an opinion from the solicitor, the auditor ruled the four were irregular and declined to certify the question to the Election Board for a place on the ballot.

Trades Council then appealed to Common Pleas Court, which upheld the labor group's contention that the auditor should have eliminated only the faulty signatures, not the entire "part petitions". The city then took the case to the district court, which upheld the court at Lisbon.

That left the next step up to the city—to appeal to the high court or to comply with the order of the appellate court. The auditor's decision was to end the litigation.

There are other implications in the decision that will emerge as the general election nears. The fact the tax issue is on the ballot for the first time since 1961 may have more than passing influence on the outcome of the mayoralty election.

But supporters of the tax issue can take heart from the fact it lost by only a few more than 100 votes when tested last nearly two years ago.

Perhaps some of the improvements in municipal services the tax has made possible may sway enough votes to the other side of the column in November. Let's hope so!

Needed Planning

Civic and business leaders from Midland and area communities in Western Pennsylvania are acting wisely in pushing ahead with plans for a development program.

It is difficult to put on paper the potential of the district, but the Shippingport Bridge now under construction can't help but serve as a spur to even bigger and better things industrial-wise and in other directions.

Without planning such as that now under way, the benefits from the bridge and additional developments could be minimized. Only through a cooperative effort can the maximum potential be realized.

As a neighbor also actively involved in progressive planning, we suggest "full speed ahead" for the Midland area group. If we follow the theory of "one for all and all for one", the ultimate benefits could be many.

Blair Appointment Seems Logical

The Board of Education has acted quickly in naming a new superintendent of schools.

Elevated to the post is Paul H. Blair, assistant superintendent for nine years under the late Ralph W. Betts. The vote was 4 to 1, with Harry McConville the dissenter.

His objections were presented in a sensible manner and can't be dismissed lightly. Mr. McConville's sincerity and dedicated feeling on matters pertaining to the school system have been demonstrated time and again.

But the expressions of confidence in Mr. Blair by the other four members of the board also make sense. You can be sure they, too, carefully weighed the pros and cons before casting their votes and also had what they considered the best interests of the school system at heart.

With nine years of service as assistant superintendent behind him, it seems logical that Mr. Blair should have been given the opportunity to step up to the superintendent's post.

Probably no one realizes more than he the challenge he faces in taking over the reins of a school system the size of East Liverpool. We think he is capable of meeting this challenge.

New Leadership

New presidents were named by both the East Liverpool and Wellsville Junior Chambers of Commerce at meetings Monday night.

Our congratulations to Robert Brooks, Richard Kevan and others elected to posts in both organizations.

The Jaycees have been doing an outstanding job in both communities and undoubtedly will continue to do so under their new leaders.

Kremlin Tried Foreign Aid, Too

As every American child learns at its mother's knee, anything the Russians can do Americans can do better.

The Russians feel the same way. But they're beginning to have doubts about foreign aid. They can't outdo the United States.

United States News & World Report reveals in a roundup of aid statistics that the Communist bloc has poured $12 billion into foreign aid since World War II while the United States has spent $100 billion.

ONLY CUBA is still able to draw heavily on Communist help—about $1 million a day from Russia. Disenchantment has fallen upon the Kremlin.

Premier Khrushchev knows the Russian people are grumbling about the folly of helping other people when they need so many things themselves. The idea of buying friends for their side in the ideological war leaves them cold.

Their shrewd nature warned them that friendship could not be bought. They have heard stories of prodigal waste in the Soviet Union's foreign aid program—cement exposed to rain until it hardened in the sacks, engineering bobbles in Egypt and India, waste of food. But what hits the Kremlin and the Russian people hardest is the realization they cannot buy progress in the ideological war.

RUSSIANS learned that the people they hoped would be enchanted with Communism were turning against it. Russians were unable to hit it off with the natives. "The Ugly Russian" was as ugly as "The Ugly American."

Inside the government, critics of foreign aid laid it on hot and heavy.

The time had come, they argued, to make the gimme beneficiaries of Mother Russia stand on their own feet. If Uncle Sam wanted to bankrupt himself, all right. But Mother Russia, with no surpluses that needed to be got rid of, should know better.

Well at least it's good to know foreign aid looks about the same on the far side of the Iron Curtain as it looks on this side.

Water Buffalo, Etc.

By Truman Twill

It's invigorating to be back in girl-watching weather.

There were days, weeks and months last winter when a girl-watcher was too busy with survival to waste one of those long, searching looks even if the subject of the scrutiny had been willing to look back.

This brings up a point about girl-watching on which confused minds are not clear. They think of it as resembling rabbit-hunting, in which the object is to bag the game.

This is not necessarily true about girl-watching. A time comes in a man's life when sighting game is more important than one more demonstration of marksmanship.

Until this time comes, a man is not really a girl-watcher. He is not objective in his point of view. He is still shooting rabbits.

It is the difference between taking a picture of a water buffalo on a safari and killing the beast so its head can be displayed as a trophy. Is not the photographer the more sophisticated?

It takes a cool cat to go to so much trouble to admire the movements of a water buffalo.

It's nice to have the climate on the side of us girl-watchers again. It's a shock to find out that the girls we watch do not always wear galoshes on their feet and babushkas on their heads—to be reminded by reality that the female of the species does not stop with the A-line.

Rediscovery has been made the more delectable by high winds and misdemeanors. The disappearance of street cars robbed girl-watching of some of its one-time zest, but that first high step has been made up for by the low-bridge automobile.

There is no lack of opportunity to inspect delicacy of line and smoothness of coordination in all its delightful perfection. If it became necessary to protect this harmless sport from predators, attention should be directed to the possibility the thing might be overdone.

Girl-watchers who carry on their sport at bathing beaches reported last summer that too much was being made of a good thing—and that was last summer. This summer, extremists will have subtracted a few more threads from the sum total of what already was inadequate coverage.

The same possibility exists in off-the-beach costumes. Any shopping center reveals more acreage of exposed female flesh than a girl-watcher wants to see.

They can make too much of a good thing; that's the, ahem, size of it.

Some of us admirers of the water buffalo may reach the point where we will see one more and murmur, "Let's see if we can find a three-toed sloth, or a black leopard. After all, Charlie, when you've seen too much of half a dozen water buffalo you've had it."

Our eyes are open, now that girl-watching weather is back. After a long winter layoff, it is taking a while to get cranked up. But we're not fighting it—not us genuine girl-watchers.

We're like bird-watchers. We never give up. Feathers may get in our eyes and we get cricks in our necks, but we'll be at it as long as we can see. Even if we must wear trifocals.

In fact, even if we must wear blinders.

Tough Way To Conduct Business

Give The Actors A Great Big Hand

By Victor Riesel

Let's give the actors a great big hand. Literally.

Why? Because there isn't a cause or a charity drive which has not asked the performers of the land, members of Actors' Equity, to go on stage without pay. The players, whose union is 50 years old this month, are willing to give benefits but they frankly now want a few of their own in return.

Victor Riesel

They want no charity. They want the public's support in making the actor's life easier, more secure economically. They can't eat glamour—not even the most glamourous and famous of them.

My good friend Ralph Bellamy, Equity's president since 1952, sat recently with some colleagues, each of them stars of the theater. Someone suggested they jot down on pieces of paper their average earnings from work on stage and, drop the slips, unsigned, into a hat.

The average income of these performers who are famed household names was revealed as—$6,000 a year from live theater.

This isn't much above the union contract's Broadway minimum of $115 a week.

THAT IS, when actors work, of Equity's 13,500 members don't work too often.

There will be more opportunities in a few weeks when some 200 rural theaters brush out the straw—as many as 4,000 of Equity's members will find work on bucolic stages.

However, during the winter the total employment figure is nearer 2,000, including Broadway. But the summer trade pays them far less than $115 a week. Those in rural stock earn as little as $70 weekly, and those in New York's "off-Broadway" get $45 weekly in all seasons.

What do they want of the public and the government? Many things. They want some tax breaks.

Today, for example, if a writer takes three years to finish a book, he can spread its earnings over the entire period for income tax relief purposes. But if an actor invests cash and work in a career and gets a break the third year after earning very little previously, he can't spread anything but his waistline.

ACTORS' EQUITY wants the international theater exchange program revived. On our side it is dead. Next year not a single professional American theater company will be abroad under government auspices. However, the Soviets will be touring their Moscow Arts Theater, and other quality performing groups.

Actors' Equity also decries "the increased invasion of the American stage by foreign actors." They come in greater numbers these days. The Immigration Service is lax with visiting actors, says Equity.

Stars from abroad such as John Gielgud, Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh are welcomed. But the actors' union objects to those of lesser ability coming here, getting stage jobs "not on the basis of their talent, but mostly because they will work for less or because they appeal to the snobset that will flock to the theater to hear anyone—good or bad—from abroad."

On the other hand, very few American stage people are permitted to work in England. The London government protects its players. Americans who do land theater jobs in Britain are told to pack up and leave after a short time.

YET BRITISH actors stay on and on here, "gobbling up jobs" which could give our own young theater people their big chance—and a chance to eat regularly.

But the American actors are reasonable. They have a strong union. They have struck only twice since they were organized in 1913, during the days when Peggy Wood was a chorus girl and Eddie Foy, Sr., sang "I am the ghost of the troupe that was stranded in Peoria."

Equity was the first American union to agree to settle disputes arising from its contract by impartial arbitration.

Yet the public takes Equity's members for granted—as though acting was an obsession, a hobby, and not a profession chosen for life.

Actors' Equity's average male member is 37 years old; the average actress is 33. More than half of the performers are married. More than half of these have children. Most have to live on the Broadway minimum.

These actors deserve a great big hand. Let's give it to them to help them win what they want from the government.

Letter To Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

I question whether the Police Department is entirely fair about parking in the city (East Liverpool).

Why do they pick on people for parking in the alleys? Why don't they get some of the No Parking and two-way zones taken care of? On Market St., between 5th and 6th, they have No Parking signs but sometimes you can't get through or make the turn.

Also, in front of the state liquor store and the junkyard in the East End. So why don't the city put parking meters in the alleys and let us use them so the police will have time to take care of other places that are more important?

I haven't gotten a parking ticket yet, but I have some friends who have.

Cuba Still Threat

By David Lawrence

On-Site Inspection Advocated

The greatest danger to the security of the United States today is in Cuba. There is enough Soviet military strength remaining on the island to launch an attack on this country.

David Lawrence

Yet the American people are being led to believe that Soviet military strength in Cuba is negligible and that an attack is as unthinkable as the missile build-up last year was supposed to be.

This was the reasoning used by government agencies in the autumn of 1962 to minimize the meaning of the Soviet troop movement and of the preliminary steps for the setting up of missile bases.

The most important official document on the Cuban situation has received only passing attention in the last 11 days from the American people. No announcement has been made of what the Kennedy administration intends to do about the facts that have just been disclosed.

There are no signs that the Soviet government is being prodded to get its troops, technicians and military equipment out of Cuba, or that any demand is being made to permit on-the-spot inspection in order to find out whether any missiles are still concealed inside the island.

THE LATEST WORD to the American people about the gravity of the Cuban situation comes not from Republican critics trying to make a political issue but from a subcommittee of the committee on armed services of the United States Senate headed by a Democratic chairman, Sen. John Stennis, of Mississippi. All seven members—4 Democrats and 3 Republicans—signed the unanimous report. It tells the unvarnished truth about what has happened and points out a lesson for the future. Here are some extracts from the report, dated May 9, which was written after hearing for many weeks secret testimony given by the intelligence agencies of the government, civilian and military:

"While a reasonably competent job was done in acquiring and collecting intelligence information and data, in retrospect it appears that several substantial errors were made by the intelligence agencies in the evaluation of the information and data which was accumulated. . . .

"Even though the intelligence community believes that all (strategic missiles) have been withdrawn, it is of the greatest urgency to determine whether or not strategic missiles are now concealed in Cuba.

"The criticality of this is illustrated by the fact that, assuming maximum readiness at pre-selected sites, with all equipment prelocated, the Soviet mobile medium-range — 1,100 miles — missiles could be made operational in a matter of hours. . . .

"SOME OTHER sources — primarily refugee and exile groups—estimate that as many as 40,000 Soviets are now in Cuba. Bearing in mind the lack of hard evidence on the question and the substantial underestimation of last fall, we conclude that no one in official United States circles can tell, with any real degree of confidence, haw many Russians are now in Cuba and we are of the opinion that the official 17,500 estimate is perhaps a minimum figure. . . .

"The evidence is overwhelming that Castro is supporting, spurring, aiding and abetting Communist revolutionary and subversive movements throughout the Western Hemisphere and that such activities present a grave and ominous threat to the peace and security of the Americas. . . .

"It is agreed that ironclad assurance of the complete absence of Soviet strategic missiles in Cuba can come only as a result of thorough, penetrating on-site inspection by reliable observers. . . .

"The importance of making every effort to ascertain the truth with respect to this matter cannot be overemphasized.

"The criticality of it can best be illustrated by the fact that the testimony established that, upon the assumption that all missiles and associated equipment and the necessary personnel were readily available near preselected sites in a state of complete readiness, mobile medium-range missiles could be made operational in a matter of hours.

"Thus, if these missiles and their associated equipment, remain in Cuba, the danger is clear and obvious. . . .

"ASSUMING without deciding that all strategic weapons have been withdrawn, there is the ever-present possibility of the stealthy reintroduction of strategic missiles and other offensive weapons, using the Soviet forces still in Cuba as camouflage and security for the activity. . . .

County Board To Ask Ballot For Franklin

LISBON — The Columbiana County Board of Education Tuesday night adopted a resolution prepared by Prosecutor G. William Brokaw to ask a ballot place Nov. 5 for a vote on the Franklin School District merger with a Carroll County District.

A court battle to allow only Franklin Township to vote on this issue was overruled by Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard and upheld by the 7th District Court of Appeals. Now, the entire Southern Local School district will vote on the issue in November.

In other business, the board adopted new textbooks for grades and high school, to be required in the four county school districts. All were recommended by study committees composed of teachers, principals and superintendents in Beaver, Fairfield-Waterford, Southern and United Local districts.

In other business, County Supt. James L. McBride reported on meeting to be held Saturday at Scio High School, at which Sam Hicks of Ohio University will be speaker. Five counties in this area have been invited for a discussion on school consolidation. The meeting was set up by Rep. Robert Longsworth of Carrollton.

Supt. McBride also discussed the National Defense Education subsistance the four county schools received, totaling $23,794, plus $7,836 for their guidance and testing programs.

He also reported that any person taking courses at technical schools should check to see if they are accredited before they pay any tuition fees. Several complaints have been made that the schools are not accredited and do not help the student obtain a position. The complaints have been in the medical fields, he said.

Hubert Lawrence, county school psychologist, reported on testing has been giving the past school term in Grades 1 through 10. He reported that the county paid $1,400 for testing of 6,000 students in group testing, or about 35 cents per pupil. He added he made 194 personal checks on child study during the year. He also discussed his other duties.

A report by Fred Lohman of Salineville, school attendance officer, shows he made 24 home visits and 54 school visits and traveled 954 miles.

Bills of $218.22 were ordered paid. Next meeting is June 18 at 8:30 p. m.

8 Children Admit Theft Of Beer In Building's Entry

Eight youngsters ranging in age from 10 to 14, rounded up Tuesday afternoon by Capt. Robert H. Pyle and Patrolman Charles A. Winters, have admitted they were responsible for a weekend burglary of the Iron City Distributing Co. warehouse on Market St. in which 66 bottles of beer were stolen.

Capt. Pyle said the youngsters have been ordered to appear before Juvenile Officer James Miller Saturday at 11 a. m. The group includes one girl. All are students at Westgate School, Capt. Pyle said.

The roundup began after Officer Winters received a tip that one of the boys had boasted to his friends that he had been drinking beer. The names of the other seven were learned during the investigation. Police said the children admitted taking 11 "six - pack" cartons of beer.

Some of the children admitted drinking the beer, officers said. One of the boys wriggled through a narrow space between two doors, obtained the beer and passed it out to his companions, police said. One of the boys said he had entered the building on two previous occasions, officers said.

8 Children Admit Theft Of Beer In Building's Entry

Eight youngsters ranging in age from 10 to 14, rounded up Tuesday afternoon by Capt. Robert H. Pyle and Patrolman Charles A. Winters, have admitted they were responsible for a weekend burglary of the Iron City Distributing Co. warehouse on Market St. in which 66 bottles of beer were stolen.

Capt. Pyle said the youngsters have been ordered to appear before Juvenile Officer James Miller Saturday at 11 a. m. The group includes one girl. All are students at Westgate School, Capt. Pyle said.

The roundup began after Officer Winters received a tip that one of the boys had boasted to his friends that he had been drinking beer. The names of the other seven were learned during the investigation. Police said the children admitted taking 11 "six - pack" cartons of beer.

Some of the children admitted drinking the beer, officers said. One of the boys wriggled through a narrow space between two doors, obtained the beer and passed it out to his companions, police said. One of the boys said he had entered the building on two previous occasions, officers said.

Miss Kay Arlene Shelton And Jack Johnston Wed

Miss Kay Arlene Shelton wore a mantilla of Chantilly lace when she became the bride of Petty Officer 3C Jack E. Johnston Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the First Church of Christ of Barberton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Shelton of Barberton and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Johnston of Hoffman Estates.

Richard McDole, minister, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with white carnations and gladiolus and ferns. Satin bows marked the family pews. Mrs. Dorothy Franks, church organist, presented a half-hour recital of wedding music. The minister sang "I Love You Truly," "Always" and "The Lord's Prayer."

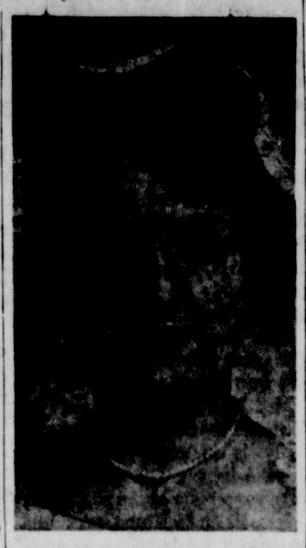

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a full-length gown of white silk linen, fashioned with a dome-shaped skirt extending into a chapel train. The Basque bodice featured a scoop neckline and elbow-length sleeves. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom. Larry James Johnston served as his brother's best man. Ushers were John Shelton, brother of the bride; Richard Bradbury, her cousin, and Craig Alan Johnston, another brother of the bridegroom. They received cufflink and tie bar sets.

The mother of the bride chose a turquoise sheath with matching shoes. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink silk sheath with matching hat. Pink rosebud corsages and white accessories complemented their attire. Mrs. Tom Lowery of Nelsonville, grandmother of the bride, wore beige with a white carnation corsage.

Questionnaires Mailed In Study Of School System

The Weir High School Alumni Association has mailed questionnaires to 297 instructors in the Hancock County school system in a survey to obtain their viewpoints on education.

Dr. Eli J. Weller, president, said teachers are not required to identify themselves in the survey sheets, which question their morale, feelings toward educational programs in the system, and other points.

An "impartial" committee will study the returns and the results will be presented to the County Board of Education for evaluation and consideration.

The committee includes Malcolm Graham, Mrs. Myer Bogorad, the Rev. Willard Macy, George Komar and Fred Barnabei.

The group asked the County Board to cooperate in the survey project May 6, but Dr. Weller pointed out that the association will go ahead with the survey regardless of the board's final decision.

The group voted to pay for treatments for a 17-month-old child, to pay the hospital bill and cost of leg braces for a two-year-old child and to pay for two pairs of corrective shoes for an adult.

Mrs. Richard Solomon, chairman of the Easter Seal sales campaign, said mail returns still are being accepted.

North Korea Evades U.S. Bid For Pilots

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — Communist North Korea evaded again today demands for the return of two American helicopter pilots forced down Friday in Communist territory.

The North Korean delegate to a special Armistice Commission meeting refused to disclose the condition of the pilots, refused to discuss the case and instead demanded a U.N. pledge against what he called another "deliberate act of aggression."

The unarmed helicopter carrying Capt. Ben W. Stutts of Florence, Ala., and Capt. Charleton W. Voltz of Frankfort, Mich., was fired on and forced down 17 miles north of Seoul while checking border markers. The U.N. command said the pilots made a navigational error.

Senate Awaits Plan For Building Schools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A new proposed for a quarter-million-dollar bond issue to finance construction at universities, public schools and recreation areas was expected to be introduced in the Senate today.

Sen. Ross Pepple, R-Allen, confirmed Tuesday that the proposal had been rewritten several times and was about ready for introduction. Pepple originally advocated a $200 million bond issue for universities and schools alone.

The proposal expected today would be in the form of a constitutional amendment to be submitted to the voters in November.

thing would be higher wages for employes and officials, Stroble said. He commented he is not against higher wages, but said this is where most of the money always goes. "This puts us back where we started," Stroble said.

Miller said "Stroble is right on one sense, the employes knew what they were getting when they took the jobs. But so did he when he took a job at the mill (Crucible Steel Co. at Midland) and he has someone fighting for him for more wages."

"I'M NOT talking about wages, I'm talking about equipment," Miller said. He commented the water department purchased a new truck a year ago, the first in 10 years. The cruisers are in good condition, but they are maintained on a regular basis. "The people will have to face up to this," Miller said, continuing "The city does not have the money to operate with."

He also pointed out this would not be an additional load on the older people who do not work.

Stroble then cited improvements to the street lighting program and the street improvements. This was done without the tax, he said. Miller pointed out the street light money comes from a levy and the street improvement money comes primarily from parking meters. This money cannot be transferred to other funds, he said.

Auditor Edgar S. Davidson's report for April showed a balance of $119,962.91. There is $10,847.23 in the general fund. The refuse fund has a balance of $886.34 while there is $1,757.17 in the water fund. The floodwall fund is $1,036.18 overdrawn.

Treasurer Charles W. Stewart's report shows a balance of $120,398.78, with outstanding checks totaling $435.87.

"It is his right and duty to check for irregularities in the petitions presented to him, and, upon discovering sufficient irregularities, it is his duty to reject the petitions. It is his right to ask the city solicitor for a legal opinion on such irregularities and it is further his right to follow such opinion, as he did in this case.

"The cry has been raised that the constitutional rights of the people have been invaded. Constitutional rights for an initiative tax vote exist for petitioners only if petitions are drawn and executed strictly according to law. Constitutional rights also exist for people who do not sign petitions and who, in this case, are willing to allow laws enacted by their duly elected representatives to remain in force.

"The auditor alone must make the decision as to whether or not the rights of petitioners have been exercised in the manner provided by law and so prevail over the rights of others for the purpose of placing the issue on the ballot. In making this decision the auditor must act independently of previous voting on the same issue.

"In this case, the auditor, in all instances, did the job for which he was elected, independently and fearlessly.

"It is my belief that much good has been derived from this case. Future petitioners will have no excuse for not knowing the law regarding obtaining signatures, for signing false affidavits, for letting others circulate petitions to which they must sign affidavits and for not explaining the contents of the petition to signers because the duty will continue to remain with the auditor to make the decisions, as he did here."

Richard and William A. Devon. Police estimated Goyak's speed at 45 miles an hour and said the Carroll auto was traveling about 20.

Goyak's auto was written off as a total loss. There was damage to the left front door and fender of the Carroll auto, four city-owned guardrail posts and the utility pole, officers said.

Goyak said he saw the bread truck halted at the edge of the road and observed the woman's auto start to pass the truck. Goyak said he applied his brakes once, then again. The second time he braked the car, it began to slide, he said.

The auto crossed the road, hit the Carroll car, then ricocheted and hit the guardrail and the utility pole, officers said.

The woman driver said the truck was parked at the edge of the road as she approached. As she pulled around the truck, she saw Goyak's oncoming car start to skid, she related. Goyak's car hit the Carroll auto and then bounded across the road into the fence and the pole, she said.

Officers cited Goyak on a charge of reckless operation and charged the Carroll woman with driving left of center. William Fauley of Canton, operator of the bread truck, was charged with blocking the road.

Both Goyak and the woman driver pleaded not guilty and their hearings were continued until Tuesday at 9 a. m. Goyak's bond of $57.50 was continued. The Midland youth was represented by Atty. Donald D. Shay.

The Canton trucker was fined $10 and costs. He pleaded guilty to a charge filed under state law alleging that he parked with two wheels of the vehicle on the berm and two on the paved portion of the street.

A pickup truck was damaged in minor mishap Tuesday at 11:25 a. m. on Pennsylvania Ave. 25 feet east of Oakland Ave., police reported.

The mishap involved a halted 1954 model truck driven by Eaton L. Maple, 34, of 1112 Vine St. and a backing 1947 model truck driven by Richard Baumgarner, 43, of Wellsville R. D. 1, police said.

Maple said his truck was halted for a traffic signal when Baumgarner backed out of a driveway and struck the pickup, causing moderate damage to the right rear fender.

Ohio Farmers Reject U.S. Wheat Proposals

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's wheat farmers, including thousands who never had had a chance to speak out on federal controls, turned out in record numbers Tuesday to help reject firmly the U. S. Agriculture Department's proposed controls for 1964.

The proposals were turned down nationally when they won only about 42 per cent of the vote, but Ohioans spoke more emphatically. Complete but unofficial tabulations of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service here showed 67,081 voted against controls to 19,639 in favor. Thus the Ohio support was only about 22.6 per cent.

The referendum needed 66.7 per cent favorable votes to pass.

Beaver County Vote Rejects Wheat Plan

Beaver County farmers strongly rejected the proposal for tighter federal controls on their crops in Tuesday's wheat referendum.

The proposal was defeated badly in the county, 326-to-52, according to the Beaver County Agricultural Committee in the county seat.

The actual turnout of farmers at five polling sites was 394. However, 16, of the ballots have been challenged and a decision on their legality will be made at a meeting of the county committee Thursday night.

When police attempted to serve a warrant on Hoschar last Friday, he fled out a window of his second - floor apartment, across a rooftop and entered the window of a vacant apartment. Officers found him hiding in a box in the attic of the vacant apartment.

Holland's affidavit alleges that Hoschar, also known as Howard Price, issued a false and forged check drawn on the First National Bank on May 6 and made payable to "cash." The check was signed with the name "W. E. Patton" and endorsed with the name "Howard Price," the charge alleges. Capt. Pyle said Hoschar purchased a pair of shoes at Bendheim's, presenting the check in payment.

Capt. Pyle's affidavit alleges that Hoschar forged the $127 check May 13 on the Potters Bank & Trust Co., making it payable to "James Rodgers."

Wellsville Opens Maintenance On Water Fountains

The fountains in Wellsville's Broadway park area are being readied for the summer.

The equipment is being painted and the water has been connected, according to Safety-Service Director Fred Baldasare. The fountain near the floodwall on Lisbon St. also is being readied.

The grass has been cut in the Broadway area, along with the park at 13th and Main St. and the 17th St. playground.

The director said the mechanical sweeper will be used tonight on 10th St. hill from Main St. to the Springhill Cemetery.

The water crew completed work today on a break in a 4-inch water main near the Gitschier property off Wells Ave.

The excavation was started yesterday. Repairs also were completed today to a break in an 8-inch sewer line off 11th St.

Rates Cut For Some Electric Heat Users

Commercial and small industrial customers of the Ohio Power Co. whose buildings are heated electrically started paying a reduced rate for service today.

Ohio Power explained the Ohio Public Utilities Commission has approved the company's request for permission to lower the rate. The reduction is the second for this classification of customers in less than two years, Ohio Power said. The previous reduction was named in September 1961.

The Canton trucker was fined $10 and costs. He pleaded guilty to a charge filed under state law alleging that he parked with two wheels of the vehicle on the berm and two on the paved portion of the street.

A pickup truck was damaged in minor mishap Tuesday at 11:25 a. m. on Pennsylvania Ave. 25 feet east of Oakland Ave., police reported.

The mishap involved a halted 1954 model truck driven by Eaton L. Maple, 34, of 1112 Vine St. and a backing 1947 model truck driven by Richard Baumgarner, 43, of Wellsville R. D. 1, police said.

Maple said his truck was halted for a traffic signal when Baumgarner backed out of a driveway and struck the pickup, causing moderate damage to the right rear fender.

Ohio Farmers Reject U.S. Wheat Proposals

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's wheat farmers, including thousands who never had had a chance to speak out on federal controls, turned out in record numbers Tuesday to help reject firmly the U. S. Agriculture Department's proposed controls for 1964.

The proposals were turned down nationally when they won only about 42 per cent of the vote, but Ohioans spoke more emphatically. Complete but unofficial tabulations of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service here showed 67,081 voted against controls to 19,639 in favor. Thus the Ohio support was only about 22.6 per cent.

The referendum needed 66.7 per cent favorable votes to pass.

Beaver County Vote Rejects Wheat Plan

Beaver County farmers strongly rejected the proposal for tighter federal controls on their crops in Tuesday's wheat referendum.

The proposal was defeated badly in the county, 326-to-52, according to the Beaver County Agricultural Committee in the county seat.

The actual turnout of farmers at five polling sites was 394. However, 16, of the ballots have been challenged and a decision on their legality will be made at a meeting of the county committee Thursday night.

West Virginia Wheat Growers Reject Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — West Virginia farmers rejected by a 1,350 to 1,239 vote yesterday a proposed new wheat control plan.

When police attempted to serve a warrant on Hoschar last Friday, he fled out a window of his second - floor apartment, across a rooftop and entered the window of a vacant apartment. Officers found him hiding in a box in the attic of the vacant apartment.

Holland's affidavit alleges that Hoschar, also known as Howard Price, issued a false and forged check drawn on the First National Bank on May 6 and made payable to "cash." The check was signed with the name "W. E. Patton" and endorsed with the name "Howard Price," the charge alleges. Capt. Pyle said Hoschar purchased a pair of shoes at Bendheim's, presenting the check in payment.

Capt. Pyle's affidavit alleges that Hoschar forged the $127 check May 13 on the Potters Bank & Trust Co., making it payable to "James Rodgers."

Wellsville Opens Maintenance On Water Fountains

The fountains in Wellsville's Broadway park area are being readied for the summer.

The equipment is being painted and the water has been connected, according to Safety-Service Director Fred Baldasare. The fountain near the floodwall on Lisbon St. also is being readied.

The grass has been cut in the Broadway area, along with the park at 13th and Main St. and the 17th St. playground.

The director said the mechanical sweeper will be used tonight on 10th St. hill from Main St. to the Springhill Cemetery.

The excavation was started yesterday. Repairs also were completed today to a break in an 8-inch sewer line off 11th St.

Rates Cut For Some Electric Heat Users

Commercial and small industrial customers of the Ohio Power Co. whose buildings are heated electrically started paying a reduced rate for service today.

Ohio Power explained the Ohio Public Utilities Commission has approved the company's request for permission to lower the rate. The reduction is the second for this classification of customers in less than two years, Ohio Power said. The previous reduction was named in September 1961.

Reds' Maloney Sets Record By Fanning 8 Straight Batters

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Maloney signed with Cincinnati on April Fool's Day, but he's no joke to National League batters.

The 22-year-old right-hander, who admits "I babied my arm too much" in his early days with the Reds, tied the modern major league record of eight consecutive strikeouts and fanned a total of 16 in a 2-0 victory over Milwaukee Tuesday night.

The Dodgers got a five-hit pitching performance from Johnny Podres, defeated the New York Mets for their seventh straight victory 4-2 and remained one game behind league-leading San Francisco. The Giants beat Philadelphia 3-2 as Billy O'Dell won his sixth without a loss.

St. Louis edged Chicago's Cubs 5-4 and Pittsburgh nipped Houston 6-5 in other games.

Maloney allowed only two hits in the 8 1-3 innings he worked. He started his string of eight straight strikeouts with Eddie Mathews in the first inning and kept whiffing Braves until Hank Aaron grounded out in the fourth inning. He had fanned 15 in the first seven innings, and had a good chance to tie or surpass the single game record of 18 held by Bob Feller and Koufax. He managed only one the rest of the way, however.

Shutout by Galen Cisco for five innings and trailing 2-0, the Dodgers put it out of reach with three runs in the sixth inning on a two-run double by Willie Davis and a single by Dick Tracewski knocked in what turned out to be the deciding run. Ron Fairly chipped in with two doubles and a single in support of Podres, now 3-3.

The Giants scored all their runs on homers with Jose Pagan's shot in the eighth inning snapping a 2-2 tie. Ed Bailey and Orlando Cepeda also connected for solo shots off Ray Culp, who went the distance for the Phillies and matched five-hitters with O'Dell. The Phillies had tied the game in the top of the eighth on Don Demeter's run-scoring single.

Bill White drove in three runs for the Cardinals with a two-run homer and a single in the seventh inning that brought home what proved to be the decisive run in a two-run rally started by winning pitcher Curt Simmons, now 6-1. Curt Flood singled across the tie-breaker and eventually scored the clincher on White's hit. Larry Jackson, a former Card, took the loss.

Jim Pagliaroni hit a three-run homer off Jim Umbricht, Colts reliever making his third appearance since recovering from cancer surgery, and put the Pirates ahead to stay 5-4 in the sixth inning. Bill Virdon's infield single in the ninth, however, drove in the deciding run.

Orioles, White Sox Neck And Neck

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's bound to be a bonanza season in the American League for Baltimore and New York—as long as the Orioles keep cashing in against left-handed pitchers and the Yankees keep getting rich against their Kansas City cousins.

The Orioles trimmed the Detroit Tigers 4-2 Tuesday night, with lefty Mickey Lolich the pitching victim in his first big league start. They've compiled an amazing 11-1 record against left-handers so far this year and 13 straight southpaws have failed to finish against them.

Mickey Mantle drove across five runs with a pair of well-tagged homers, powering the Yanks over Kansas City 7-4. That made the Bombers 3-for-3 against the A's, a club they have manhandled outrageously since it moved west from Philadelphia eight years ago.

The Orioles' victory was their seventh in the last eight games and kept them tied for the league lead with the Chicago White Sox, who outlasted the Washington Senators 4-3.

In the night's other AL game, Minnesota's surging Twins poured across seven runs in the third inning and whacked Boston 8-2. The Red Sox and the A's dropped two games behind the league's co-leaders and a game behind the Yanks, who have also won seven of their last eight. The Los Angeles Angels-Indians match at Cleveland was rained out.

The White Sox built up a 4-0 lead at Washington with the help of a three-run sixth inning, but barely outlasted the Senators.

Held to four hits and one run through eight innings, the Senators made it a squeaker against reliever Hoyt Wilhelm when Don Lock homered with one on in the ninth and Ken Retzer singled—all with none out. But the knuckleballer turned away the next three men, saving the victory for John Buzhardt, now 4-1.

The Twins collected their seven runs in the third against Red Sox rookie star Dave Morehead and reliever Jack Lamabe on Vic Power's triple, a double by Bob Allison, four singles, two walks and a wild pitch. It paved the way for Minnesota's fifth victory in the last six games and made it a breeze for right-hander Jim Perry. He evened his record at 2-2 with an eight-hitter.

Earl Battey socked a homer for the Twins, while back-to-back homers by Lu Clinton and Dick Stuart in the fourth accounted for the Boston runs.

Gallagher's Win First Start In Chester Loop

One game was played while another was rained out as the Chester City Softball League launched its season between rain drops Tuesday at the Chester City Park Field.

Gallagher's came from behind to defeat Hancock County Savings & Loan, 10-6 while the New Cumberland - Chester Merchants battle was called because of rain.

Townley led Gallagher's to its six-inning game called because of darkness when he blasted a pair of doubles and a home run. Bob Hall collected two triples for the winners and Jack Gallagher came through with a three-base hit.

Hancock Savings had scored six runs in the first two innings before Gallagher's got started in the right direction.

Don Glass and Tom Rector with two hits each paced the losers. Glenn McGaffic was the winning hurler with Jack Bryan being checked with the loss.

Gallagher's collected nine hits while Hancock Savings had eight.

Royals Hunt Coach; Wolf Goes To Pistons

CINCINNATI (AP) — Warren Hensel, busy making final arrangements to buy the pro basketball Cincinnati Royals, has another chore—finding a new coach.

Charley Wolf, who in three years developed the Royals into a power in the National Basketball Association, signed a two-year contract with the Detroit Pistons Tuesday.

Hensel, wealthy Cincinnati businessman, said Tuesday night he had no ideas about who might succeed Wolf.

"This is too quick," he said. "I'll just have to take a look now."

Held to four hits and one run through eight innings, the Senators made it a squeaker against reliever Hoyt Wilhelm when Don Lock homered with one on in the ninth and Ken Retzer singled—all with none out. But the knuckleballer turned away the next three men, saving the victory for John Buzhardt, now 4-1.

The Twins collected their seven runs in the third against Red Sox rookie star Dave Morehead and reliever Jack Lamabe on Vic Power's triple, a double by Bob Allison, four singles, two walks and a wild pitch. It paved the way for Minnesota's fifth victory in the last six games and made it a breeze for right-hander Jim Perry. He evened his record at 2-2 with an eight-hitter.

Earl Battey socked a homer for the Twins, while back-to-back homers by Lu Clinton and Dick Stuart in the fourth accounted for the Boston runs.

Gallagher's Win First Start In Chester Loop

One game was played while another was rained out as the Chester City Softball League launched its season between rain drops Tuesday at the Chester City Park Field.

Gallagher's came from behind to defeat Hancock County Savings & Loan, 10-6 while the New Cumberland - Chester Merchants battle was called because of rain.

Townley led Gallagher's to its six-inning game called because of darkness when he blasted a pair of doubles and a home run. Bob Hall collected two triples for the winners and Jack Gallagher came through with a three-base hit.

Hancock Savings had scored six runs in the first two innings before Gallagher's got started in the right direction.

Don Glass and Tom Rector with two hits each paced the losers. Glenn McGaffic was the winning hurler with Jack Bryan being checked with the loss.

Gallagher's collected nine hits while Hancock Savings had eight.

Royals Hunt Coach; Wolf Goes To Pistons

CINCINNATI (AP) — Warren Hensel, busy making final arrangements to buy the pro basketball Cincinnati Royals, has another chore—finding a new coach.

Charley Wolf, who in three years developed the Royals into a power in the National Basketball Association, signed a two-year contract with the Detroit Pistons Tuesday.

Hensel, wealthy Cincinnati businessman, said Tuesday night he had no ideas about who might succeed Wolf.

"This is too quick," he said. "I'll just have to take a look now."

Ohio Tourney Attendance Came Near Million Mark

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Attendance at Ohio's high school basketball tournaments inched nearer the million mark this spring.

The Ohio High School Athletic Association's report on the county-through-state playoffs disclosed that 975,795 paying customers viewed the contests, up from last year's 971,689. Receipts rose from $816,465 to $840,259.

The state association's share—used to finance all high school athletic activity—climbed to a new high of $188,345.94, some $13,000 over the $175,338.68 of a year ago.

County tournaments were held in only 56 of the 88 counties—and the biggest of them all was staged in Indiana. The Preble County playoffs were played in Richmond Ind., and drew 14,687 customers. Ross County was next with 9,147—but the latter drew $9,127 in receipts against $8,488 at Richmond.

Carroll County was at the bottom with 153 spectators and $109 in receipts. Heavy attendances included Tuscarawas 7,583, Putnam 8,282, Seneca 6,318, Adams 6,938 and Darke (at Union City, Ind.) 6,081.

The entire county setup drew 202,179 fans and $144,589 in receipts.

Troy's AA sectional - district meet was tops in attendance with 41,407, but Columbus with 38,965 led Troy in receipts, $34,023 to $32,405. Other big-gate sectional-district events were Youngstown-Struthers 29,551, Dayton 27,989, Canton 23,531, Oxford-Middletown 22,811, Cincinnati 19,312 and Lima 18,214, all in the Class AA play. Leader in Class A was Dayton with attendance of 10,060.

The sectional-district play attracted 634,748 customers who paid $495,056, and the regionals drew 85,354 and receipts of $107,481. Cincinnati led the regionals with 19,110 customers and $25,048 in receipts, well ahead of Cleveland's 16,818 and $22,805. Regional totals were 85,354 and $107,481.

The state tourney, at which Columbus East won the Class AA crown and Dresden the smaller school laurels, was witnessed by 53,514, down somewhat from last year's 54,566. Receipts were $93,131.66.

Competing teams received $5,600 in expenses and $3,600 in bonuses at the state meet, the bonuses at $300 per game. Cheerleader expense was $1,071 for a total team expense of $10,271. The state association kept $74,229 as its share of the state tourney receipts, up slightly from last year's $72,577.

Other games were called off because of wet grounds but Burbick's, with an 11-hit attack, defeated the Medics, 13-6, in a Little League contest Tuesday night.

Clark had a three-for-four night and drove in three runs with a double and home run the most resounding hits.

McKinnon was the winning hurler with relief from Cornell. They combined to limit the Medics to five hits.

Cramer and Pickens had two hits each for the losers.

WVU Nips Pitt, 6-4, To Post 29-1 Record

PITTSBURGH (AP) — West Virginia's Mountaineers closed their regular season baseball schedule yesterday with a 6-4 victory over the Pitt Panthers.

The win gave the Mountaineers a 29-1 mark for the season.

WVU's Frank Munchin paced the attack with a bases loaded triple in the third inning.

Although the Panthers out-hit the Mountaineers 9-3, they couldn't put the runs across, stranding nine men on base compared to six for West Virginia.

The Mountaineers next outing is against Wake Forest in the NCAA regional tournament at Gastonia, N.C., May 30.

Nothing Startling Seen When NFL Owners Meet

ST. LOUIS (AP)—On the eve of their annual spring meeting, National Football League club owners did most of their talking privately about suspensions, trade rumors and alleged betting by Baltimore Colt President Carroll Rosenbloom.

Nothing startling was expected to emerge from the two-day meeting, which officially opened with a private session today.

The owners are meeting for the first time since Commissioner Peter Rozelle suspended Paul Hornung of the Green Bay Packers and Alex Karras of the Detroit Lions for betting on games.

When questioned Tuesday on how soon the suspensions would be reviewed, Rozelle answered:

'I said at that time (last April) that the earliest possible time these cases could be reviewed would be after the end of the 1963 season or sometime in 1964. That still stands."

Asked what will go on at the meeting, Rozelle replied that "we're going to try to settle some of the things we tabled at our winter meeting in Miami. Outside of that, there shouldn't be anything startling.'

On the agenda will be discussions of television and radio rights, the Pottsville, Pa. plea for the return of the 1925 NFL title, a disaster plan, player limit, players benefit fund and rule change recommendations.

A decision had been expected on the alleged betting by Rosenbloom on league games some 10 years ago, but Rozelle said the case would not be brought up during the meeting because of a delay in the investigation.

Thousands More Pay Tribute To Late Ernie Davis

ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP) — Ernie Davis, a football hero cheered by thousands, received the homage of thousands more on the eve of his funeral today.

The service, scheduled for the Monumental Baptist Church, was shifted to the First Baptist Church, which can accommodate 900 persons.

Nearly 10,000 persons filed through the gymnasium of Neighborhood House Tuesday to pay respects to the 23-year-old athlete voted the nation's outstanding collegiate football player in 1961. Davis died Saturday in Cleveland of lukemia.

Among those who arrived early for the funeral were Ben Schwartzwalder, Davis' coach at Syracuse University, and Arthur Modell, president of the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League, for whom Davis was to have played.

The Woodlawn Vase, symbolic of victory in the Preakness Stakes at Pimlico, is insured for $33,000. A half-size replica goes to the winner of the race.

Berlin Makes Surprise Bid For Olympics

BERLIN, Germany (AP)—Avery Brundage and other leading Olympic officials have thrown support behind the surprise bid of Berlin to play host to the 1968 Olympic Games.

"It would be a victory of sport over politics," Otto Mayer, chancellor of the International Olympic Committee said in Lausanne, Switzerland, Tuesday.

He said the IOC welcomed the surprise bid by Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin.

"This would be a great triumph for amateur sports and the Olympic movement and it would put political wrangling to shame," Brundage, president of the IOC, said in Chicago.

"It would be a triumph at least equal to the triumph we had when we had East and West Germany marching together behind the Olympic flag in the past two summer and winter Olympics," Brundage said.

Success of the project hinged on the cooperation of the Communist East Germans. Their cooperation would mean, in effect, lowering the Communist wall.

There has been no official comment from East Germany, but West Berlin sources said East Berlin officials have reacted favorably to the plan.

Nats' Shift To Philly Due NBA Approval

NEW YORK (AP)—A special meeting of the National Basketball Association is expected to approve the shift of the Syracuse Nats to Philadelphia today. The move will restore the NBA to Philadelphia after a one-year absence.

The meeting was called last week by outgoing NBA president Maurice Podoloff to discuss the sale of the Nats to a Philadelphia group.

Fishing is private business with a lot of people. For example, former President Herbert Hoover wanted no federal officers, news photographers or any one else interferring with him when he went fishing. There's someting about this form of relaxation that does a man good, physically and spiritually.

This is something that comes along with age. Not that you have to grow old before you appreciate it, but it can begin in childhood days and become a sort of obsession and a form of recreation that does not appreciate any interference.

So, let's assume that youngster of yours wants to go fishing. He's seen movies of people catching fish and has decided he wants to catch fish too. There's a hidden spirit of the pioneers born in him that urges him to seek outdoor recreation, even if he has known only city life from the day he was born.

IF EVER your boy, or girl for that matter, says to you, "Dad, take me fishing!" the thing to do is arrange a fishing trip.

There's no better time than right now. Lake Guilford is loaded with bluegills, not all of them in the 8-or-9-inch class, but fish of all sizes with big appetites. And to catch them means no more than a fising pole with hook and line and a few garden worms or maggots to use as bait. I think maggots, the kind you get from a biat store boxed in corn meal, are the preferred bait, since they are not actually as messy as garden worms.

And while you are at it, how about taking the neighbor kid along, too? Maybe his dad's work shift prevents him from taking this youngster fishing, so your boy and his boy can team up. They're good company for each other.

ONCE THEY have mastered the fundamentals of fishing you can take along a book to read or take a good snooze or take along your paraphernalia and go after game fish. The youngsters eventually will graduate to the more sporting and scientific aspects of fishing.

Practically all the shore fishermen are catching loads of bluegills, crappies, channel cats, bullheads, perch and an occasional game fish, along with lunker carp that tie on to a do-ball and put a severe strain on your rod by sheer weight and horse strength.

Incidentally, you bow fishermen get busy. The carp are now spawning and creating quite a commotion in the bull-rushes and lilly pads. They are all yours if you know how to handle your equipment. All you need is a fishing license to take them in this manner. But for goodness sake, do something with them besides leave them to stink up the shore line.

U.P. Assembly Urges Greater Peace Efforts

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—The United Presbyterian General Assembly neared its close today with a call for greater peacemaking efforts among nations, among races and among the separate bodies of Christianity.

It applauded what it called the new "cordiality in associations" between Protestants and Roman Catholics.

It appealed to the U.S. government to work with patience and persistence to obtain a workable agreement with the Soviet Union for controlled disarmament.

Delegates also approved a church constitution revision requiring local congregations to make "certain that membership is not refused because of color, origin or worldly condition."

This action, subject to ratification by local presbyteries, was described as putting teeth in the 3¼ million member denomination's declared objective of a "non-segregated church in a non-segregated society."

Cooper Reveals Prayer Offered During Flight

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — From a spacecraft fittingly named Faith 7 came fresh evidence that American astronauts believe that something more than computers guides them through the skies.

It was a prayer offered by Maj. Gordon Cooper at the close of his eight-minute address to Congress Tuesday—a prayer he spoke into his tape recorder last week as he whizzed around the earth on his 16th orbit. His mother, sitting in the House gallery, bowed her head and covered her eyes, then wiped away the tears and smiled.

The astronauts do not like to talk about their religious beliefs. When asked, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will reply that religion is not listed on the records of the spacemen.

Cooper himself is not a regular church-goer but he said recently he considers religion important "in all the things we do." As a youth he attended the Methodist church and his family, a space agency official said, belongs to a Methodist church in Seabrook, Tex.

At the first news conference of an American spaceman, Alan Shepard Jr. would only say of the astronauts' religious beliefs that:

"I think that all seven of us have that religious faith which we express in our own individual ways. I think that is about all I care to comment."

But, since then, some of the astronauts have struggled over their hesitancy and revealed evidences of belief, sometimes strong belief, in God.

Perhaps Cooper's prayer was the most potent evidence, for it came in so public and significant a place. Here's the prayer he offered in his spacecraft, and repeated Tuesday: "Father, thank You, especially for letting me fly this flight.

"Thank You for the privilege of being able to be in this position; to be up in this wondrous place, seeing all these many startling, wonderful things that You have created.

"Help guide and direct all of us that we may shape our lives to be much better Christians, trying to help one another, and to work with one another rather than fighting and bickering.

"Help us to complete this mission successfully.

"Help us in our future space endeavors that we may show the world that a democracy really can compete, and still are able to do things in a big way, and are able to do research, development and can conduct many scientific and very technical programs.

"Be with all our families. Give them guidance and encouragement, and let them know that everything will be okay.

"We ask in Thy name.

"Amen."

FIELD AND STREAM

By R. L. LIDE

Fishing is private business with a lot of people. For example, former President Herbert Hoover wanted no federal officers, news photographers or any one else interferring with him when he went fishing. There's someting about this form of relaxation that does a man good, physically and spiritually.

This is something that comes along with age. Not that you have to grow old before you appreciate it, but it can begin in childhood days and become a sort of obsession and a form of recreation that does not appreciate any interference.

So, let's assume that youngster of yours wants to go fishing. He's seen movies of people catching fish and has decided he wants to catch fish too. There's a hidden spirit of the pioneers born in him that urges him to seek outdoor recreation, even if he has known only city life from the day he was born.

IF EVER your boy, or girl for that matter, says to you, "Dad, take me fishing!" the thing to do is arrange a fishing trip.

There's no better time than right now. Lake Guilford is loaded with bluegills, not all of them in the 8-or-9-inch class, but fish of all sizes with big appetites. And to catch them means no more than a fising pole with hook and line and a few garden worms or maggots to use as bait. I think maggots, the kind you get from a biat store boxed in corn meal, are the preferred bait, since they are not actually as messy as garden worms.

And while you are at it, how about taking the neighbor kid along, too? Maybe his dad's work shift prevents him from taking this youngster fishing, so your boy and his boy can team up. They're good company for each other.

ONCE THEY have mastered the fundamentals of fishing you can take along a book to read or take a good snooze or take along your paraphernalia and go after game fish. The youngsters eventually will graduate to the more sporting and scientific aspects of fishing.

Practically all the shore fishermen are catching loads of bluegills, crappies, channel cats, bullheads, perch and an occasional game fish, along with lunker carp that tie on to a do-ball and put a severe strain on your rod by sheer weight and horse strength.

Incidentally, you bow fishermen get busy. The carp are now spawning and creating quite a commotion in the bull-rushes and lilly pads. They are all yours if you know how to handle your equipment. All you need is a fishing license to take them in this manner. But for goodness sake, do something with them besides leave them to stink up the shore line.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Why do you persist in calling people "Toots," "Lamb Chop," "Bub" "Petunia," "Buster," "Honey Bun" and countless other equally undignified names?

Surely you must be aware that some people who write to you are older than you are and therefore entitled to respect. How do you think a 70-year-old grandmother feels when you refer to her as "Toots"?

Recently my father-in-law wrote to you and didn't sign his name. I recognized his letter because I happened to know of his problem. I admit the situation he described sounded like that of a much younger man, but he is a gentleman 68 years of age. In your reply to him you called him "Buddy Boy."

Your advice is excellent but your sarcasm and smart aleck approach to your correspondents is a bit too much. — TO THE POINT.

Dear Point: Thank you for your letter. It is not the first letter I have received offering this criticms. The next letter deals with the same subject. I hope you will read it.

Refreshing Reading

Dear Ann: Your column is like a breath of fresh air! I especially enjoy your down-to-earth, unpretentious, old-shoe atitude toward all who write.

When you pop back with, "Look, Buttercup," or "Listen, Bub," my husband gets such a bang out of it he can't stop laughing. "Buster" and "Doll" set him off, too, but nothing does it like "Buddy Boy"!

Reading your column every day is almost the same as having a personal chat with you. Your wisdom and wit are a priceless combination. Without being unkind, you scale people down to size with just the right phrase. And who of us doesn't need it now and then?

Don't ever lose that refreshing straight-from the-shoulder humor which your readers dearly love.—N.C. BOOSTER.

Dear Booster: Thanks, "Doll." And please give my regards to "Buddy Boy."

Telephone Pest

Dear Ann: I am a retired insurance man who has a good wife, a nice family and I'm strictly a mind-my-own-business type.

Three weeks ago I received a telephone call from a man who said, "You had better stop seeing my wife or you'll be in serious trouble." I asked his name but he wouldn't tell me. I invited him to come to my home and talk to me but he refused.

I'm completely innocent and have nothing to hide. I even offered to go see him but he wouldn't tell me where he lived or where he worked.

Last week he called again with the same message. Yesterday I received a third call — this one was angrier and I suspect he had been drinking. I phoned the telephone company and asked them to trace the call but they said it was impossible.

Please tell me what to do. I am deeply concerned.—NOT GUILTY.

Dear Not Guilty: The man sounds like a crackpot who picked your name out of the phone book. Ask the telephone company to change your number. They will be happy to do so when you explain the circumstances.

Confidentially

TO UNLUCKY MAN WHO CAN'T GET A BREAK: Of course luck is a factor in success. But look around and you'll notice that the harder people work the luckier they get.

-:-

TO STUCK IN SUBURBIA AND LOATHING IT: You'll be happier if you resign yourself to O'Neil's law: "He who misses the 6:05 will also miss the 11:40."

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Awarding Improvement Motivates Child

A mother once reported to me that she tried to encourage in her two girls, four and five, neatness about their places at the table by pasting a star for the child who left her place neatest. She said she soon gave up the practice, as it seemed to make them hate each other. Naturally so, since one child's winning meant the other's losing. She might have had desirable results if either or both could win a star by having a neater place today than the day before.

Dr. Garry Meyers

In the family or classroom, the principle of an award for the child's gain in some trait or achievement over his own earlier behavior or achievement has big possibilities for motivation. It doesn't pit one child against other children but against himself.

—:—

IN THE USUAL award system, only a few children can win and they usually are the same children. Most other children say to themselves, "I can never win. What's the use?"

But when a reward is given to any child, even the lowest in the class, improvement in any trait or achievement may win. Every child may be motivated.

You and I know some elementary teachers who stimulate their children to strive harder in such matters as neatness, cleanliness, good manners, thoughtfulness, listening while others speak, trying hard to learn, sharing, being cheerful or being dependable.

They don't do so by rewarding the neatest or cleanest child or the one with best manners and so on. They do it by rewarding the child who, in a period of a week, say, has shown greatest improvement in such directions.

AT THE BEGINNING of the week, the teacher announces to her class the trait or kind of behavior on which she hopes every child will strive to improve. At the end of the week, she announces the name of the one who showed the most improvement.

The teacher may have all the children help her to name this child. In addition to announcing the name of the winner, she may post an attractive placard with his name on it.

Perhaps some children will make this award placard. While any teacher may make this weekly award without cost but with good values to the children, some teachers prefer to purchase an inexpensive packet of such awards along with instructions for their use, now on the market.

In ancient mythology, Queen Hippolyta ruled over the Amazons.

British Ombudsman Deals In Complaints

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) —Sir Guy Powles, first ombudsman in the British Commonwealth, has been on the job six months.

In that time, according to the Government Press Office, he has received 334 complaints. Of these, 143 were oustide his jurisdiction and dropped; 74 are still being considered; 91 were without foundation; 26 had "some substance", and in 13 of these the error was rectified.

You don't know what an ombudsman is? He's an investigator of complaints against government action. He cannot start legal action, but advises a government department if the citizen's complaint is worthwhile. He's paid by the government.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR HELOISE: I have the regular-type broiler pan and we often broil hamburger patties in it. I have found that I can line the lottom of the broiler pan with foil and line the insert of the pan with foil also, turning under the edges and placing it on the grill.

However, my home economics course taught me that meat should not be brolied on a smooth surface. That is what those little holes and slits are for in the broiler pans.

Now, before I place my steak on the top broiling section, I take my knife and slit dashes through the foil to allow the juice and drippings to drop into the bottom of the pan. It sure saves that hard scouring and broken finger nails after dinner is over.

N. M.

DEAR HELOISE: I keep a wooden clothes pin handy near my kitchen sink and it saves me many a broken fingernail. I use it to loosen those stubborn spots from the pans and skillets and it does not scratch them.

HELEN M.

DEAR HELOISE: My sister-in-law makes crisp, crunchy salads by preparing her greens and placing them in her colander and putting a tray of ice cubes over them for about 20 minutes.

Remove ice, place greens in a clean tea towel and shake out the moisture. Add your favorite dressing.

She also puts a tooth pick through a clove of garlic in her dressing and before serving, removes the garlic bud.

She has no difficulty finding the garlic bud because of the tooth pick. It is easy.

MRS. J. WEIMAR.

DEAR HELOISE: I make a thick paste of cornstarch and water and apply it to the oil stains and spatterings of fat on my wall paper.

I make a thick layer on the center of the stain and taper it it off to the sides. Make a circle four or five times as large as the stain to avoid a ring.

Leave on for at least 24 hours. Do not remove even if it starts to crumple. At the end of 24 hours if it is not completely dry wait longer. Brush off with a broom or sweeper attachment. Repeat if necessary.

MRS. L.J.R.

HELOISE.

Washing Corduroy

DEAR HELOISE: Would you please tell us how to wash corduroy? I want to know how you do yours.

MOTHER OF 4 BOYS WHO WEAR CORDUROY.

DEAR MOMMY: I hand wash all of my small corduroy garments.

If you wash yours in a washing machine, be sure to rinse them thoroughly with either a water softener or our old housewives friend . . . vinegar!

When I wash garments made of this in my machine, I remove them before the last spin dry . . . after using the vinegar rinse.

This seems to prevent hard-set wrinkles.

If you forget — and don't we all — put them in your sink and rinse again by hand adding about a half-cup of vinegar to a sink full of warm water. Let soak. Plunge up and down with your "plumbers friend!"

Gently squeeze dry. Hang to dry. Before completely dry, take your old vegetable brush and brush the soft pile.

The vinegar rinse gives my corduroy a soft velvety shine!

And that's the way I wash my corduroy. I'm completely satisfied.

What do you have to lose? A half-cup of vinegar?

You'll love it. I do.

HELOISE.

If your white sauce is lumpy, try melting the butter over low heat and stirring in the flour. Then remove from heat while you gradually stir in the milk, keeping smooth after each addition.

Gov. Romney In Washington For Address To Press Club

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan comes to town today for a fresh demonstration that even if a man isn't running for the presidency it's nice to keep the prospect alive.

Romney, who has said repeatedly that "I am not going to become a candidate" for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, is booked for a luncheon speech and question period before the National Press Club.

This is hardly the forum for the "Michigan Week" address aides said they expected him to make. Nor could the governor be assured of bringing down the house with an explanation of how his administration had jacked up the state's financial status.

What the Washington press corps wants to know—and may or may not find out—is whether Romney is going along with a move by his state's GOP congressional delegation to make him a favorite son candidate.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford, who seldom ventures out on the end of a political limb, has proposed the state's 48-vote delegation go to the party nominating convention pledged to Romney. This would be a device calculated to promote the kind of "vigorous, controversial convention" Ford thinks the party needs as a prelude to a rip-snorting campaign against President Kennedy.

In the viewpoint of Ford and a great many other politicians, Romney has made an impressive start as governor. But they think he is too new to the job to be sprouting publicly any ambition to be president.

Ohio GOP Told It Needs United Front To Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Central and Southern Ohio Republicans whooped it up at a $100-a-plate fund raising dinner here Tuesday night but were warned by their national chairman that a united front is the only way the GOP can regain the White House.

Republican National Chairman William E. Miller asked the crowd of party faithful: "Are we certain of victory?"

"I wish I thought so," he said, answering his own question. "But one thing can defeat us, and that is the inability of Republicans to unify and stay unified."

Earlier at a press conference, Miller said he believed a spirited battle for the GOP's 1964 presidential nomination would be good for the party. He also said he thought the nomination will be open to all contenders, including Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Getting Little Complicated

House, Senate To Vote On Driver Penalty Bills

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Things concerning traffic violation penalties are getting a little complicated under the "12-bad-points-and-out" system.

The House is scheduled to vote today on a bill to permit the registrar of motor vehicles to mete out an automatic suspension to anyone who accumulates 12 or more traffic points in a two-year period.

But, in advance of a House vote on that measure, the Senate was completing legislative action on a bill to put enforcement of the point system bill in the hands of county prosecutors rather than with the attorney general.

The bills actually do not clash. The one coming up today puts suspensions in the hands of the registrar and enforcement in the hands of prosecutors.

It was automobile day in the legislature Tuesday, although no one apparently planned it that way.

A bill passed by the House and sent to the Senate would boost the outside-city freeway speed limit to 70 miles an hour from the present 65 and permit motorists to boost their speed on in-city expressways from 50 to 60. Limits for big trucks would be 55 outside cities and 50 inside.

The House passed unanimously a bill to authorize speeding arrests without a warrant where radar devices are involved. The purpose was to remove a cloud on such arrests created by the Ohio Supreme Court.

The House defeated, 55-67, a bill requiring a year's driving rights suspended for a person refusing to take a chemical test for drunk driving if asked by arresting officers.

The House also passed, 87-42, a bill to rebate about $1 million a year to mass transit systems in gasoline taxes. The bill goes to the Senate.

House Finance Chairman Ralph Fisher, R-Wayne, introduced a bill to appropriate $958,233 for payment of 45 sundry claims against the state. Since the state cannot be sued, the claims are considered moral obligations.

With only seven dissenting Democratic votes, the Senate virtually completed passage of a bill sponsored by the Republican Rhodes administration to reduce membership of the Ohio Expositions Commission from 16 to 11. The bill must return to the House for concurrence in amendments.

The bill guarantees, however, that persons showing livestock may remove the animals before the Ohio State Fair closes in order to enter county fair competition.

The Senate also completed legislative action on bills to:

Permit the Department of Natural Resources to buy land through the issuance of revenue bonds.

Permit, in the case of a fire marshal's demolition orders, appeals in regard to liquor permit premises.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Exercise Leads To Sudden Slimming

The biggest stumbling block to conditioning exercise is mental. To ease into exercise, wake up and stretch.

Ida Jean Kain

Stretching is a natural. Start a rousing stretch and nature carries on the stretch impulse. On awakening, reach out sidewards with arms. . .pushing down hard with your heels. Make this a long, drawn-out stretch. Relax and stretch again leisurely. There is no better way to start the day, since the natural stretch prods the circulation into action.

What about muscle toning? From your letters I know you are intrigued with the seeming magic of iso-metric exercise and the promise that a few seconds of exercise a day can keep you in top trim.

WELL, THERE is muscle toning in the technique! If you will contract any muscle and hold the contraction for six seconds, you can increase muscle strength 5 per cent in a week, and in 20 weeks you can double the strength.

Perhaps you are more interested in streamlines than in strength of muscle. Size and shape are a matter of muscle tone as well as weight. Toned muscles hug your figure. Flabby muscles bulk out.

To lessen resistance to putting muscles through their paces, try this beguiling approach: Use the count-down. As you lie in bed, comfortably relaxed, begin the count with 10. On the count of 9, s-t-r-e-t-c-h, 8 y-a-w-n. . .go limp for 7-654.

On the count of 3, ease into action. Bend both knees, with soles of feet flat on bed. Pull up-and-in and h-o-l-d with the midsection muscles, pressing small of back flat against the bed. 2 - 1 - 0 - h-o-l-d. . .up-and-in-slim.

You are now exercising iso-metrically with the abdominal muscles that brace the frontline. Repeat a couple of times more for good measure, always holding the muscle contraction but never holding your breath. It's a good plan to count out loud.

Now hold against gravity. From the same position, knees bent. Stretch right leg down straight, but keep left knee bent. Raise right leg about 12 inches, knee straight, again pull up and in forcibly with middle muscles.

Slowly lower right leg to the bed to a measured, rhythmic count of six. One, Miss-iss-ippi, two, slim and svelte, three, strong and lissome. Make up your own words. You can have what you want and carry into action. Repeat three times with each leg, holding for six seconds only.

—:—

DO THIS iso-metric contraction routine every morning. In five days you'll feel slimmer. This six-second holding action sets the pattern for you to follow through in your everyday movements. Muscles are wonderful if you use them correctly.

Send a long stamped, self-addressed envelope for "Wake Up And Stretch." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of The Review. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

The Fine Art Of Shut-Up

The violinist stands — tall, neat and cool as a mint julep — and taps an imaginary bow against his trouser leg while the lady pianist makes her self comfortable at an imaginary piano. She must remove her gloves before they can start; but the gloves come up to her shoulder blades, they are terribly tight, and they take a good deal of tooth and muscle to get them off. Ah. Now they may start.

Alan Gill

WELL, YOU SAW the rest of the concert, didn't you? The gentleman with the violin was Sid Caesar. The art was pantomime. And it seems to me that Caesar, after a bad season, is rallying in the last minutes and scoring nicely.

This is particularly good news, since the fellow is well nigh at the top of the honor roll of funny Americans and he's got an every-other-week schedule to fulfill on television next season.

His success or failure, of necessity, depends upon his material. Can he and his writers invest enough variations on a theme to keep a lighter-than-air comedy skit up there in space? Can they imagine enough sight gags to keep a violin concert (for example) going into the night?

TAKE THE CONCERT Caesar put on last week.

He (a) helped his accompanist raise the imaginary piano lid, only to have it (b) clamp shut on him. Brushing himself off with awesome dignity, he (c) stepped forward — crunch! — into his violin. He (d) got hold of a second violin, only to have a string snap back into his face.

He (e) clamped his chin testily upon the next replacement and crushed it to smithereens between jaw and collarbone. Then, with a fourth violin, he was all set. The concert could commence. But his nerves frayed as he (f) waited for the pianist to finish her interminable introduction.

NOW, GIVEN a chance to show off, he (g) tore through a wildly impossible series of argeggios, only to (h) run himself through with his bow at its climax. The accompanist, using her foot for leverage, (i) disimpaled him, wiping the bow clean on his coat tails.

The violin obviously needed retuning, and the instrumentalist (j) obliged; but, in the tuning, it began to sound a bit like a banjo. The violinist grinned oafishly, lowered the fiddle, and strummed out a minstrel tune.

In his show the other night, Caesar's fiddle concert went on to a (k), (l) and (m), just like the Dutch airline; and I thought the act stayed right up there in the clouds all the way.

SO DID HIS only other skit of the evening, a takeoff on a silent movie, called "A Fool's Profile, the Rise and Fall of John Splendid."

As in all such Caesar charades, there were the familiar bits; the obligatory scene in which the leading lady, wearing a long, tickly brush in her headband, could aim it nowhere but into the hero's face; or the love-at-first-sight scene, eyeballs in vivid motion, culminating in a kiss that emitted real live steam. (A subtitle was flashed upon the screen: "The Kiss of the Century.")

A few moments later, John Splendid, the idol of millions, was beginning to hit the bottle — or rather the slipper.

Quickly, we saw him drinking from her slipper in London (he was drunk now); in Paris (drunker); in Berlin (blotto). And in Rome, he was guzzling from one slipper, eating spaghetti out of the other.

It all ended in true silent-screen fashion — the great profile drinking himself into a bulbous-nosed drunk and winding up, soberly and happily, as a clown in the circus.

It was the spittin' image of an old Hollywood movie, all right. But better yet, Sid was the spittin' image of the old Caesar, and that is real cause for rejoicing.

There Has Been Some Progress

Red Chinese Exaggerate Gains Made In Industry

The people of Red China often confuse glories promised for tomorrow with the facts of today. The result is an exaggerated claim of industrial progress. Yet, there have been gains. In this third article in a special series, a British author and poet who just took a travel agency tour of Red China tells how the people behind the bam-boo curtain feel about what has been accomplished to date.

By RICHARD P. LISTER

PEKING (AP)—They call the Communist revolution in China the Liberation. The date is Oct. 1, 1949 when Mao Tze-Tung declared the founding of the Peoples' Republic. As of that date there was not a single factory capable of making needles and pins. So, at least, the Chinese declare.

Now, they say, a very high proportion of all consumer goods and industrial equipment used in China is home-made.

Whatever view may be taken of the means used by the Chinese to hoist themselves up—the harshness of the system and its ruthlessness toward many individual lives—the achievement seems to be real and impressive. To judge the measure of its success, it is only necessary to compare the present state of China, 14 years after revolution, with that of Russia in 1931.

It is all the more peculiar, then, that the Chinese do not always seem content to let real achievement speak for itself. They are so full of the glories of tomorrow that sometimes they confuse them with the facts of today.

There's a steelworks at Wuhan, the university town on the Yangtze. Begun in 1957, it now employs 40,000. It reminded me of the old fashioned plant where I worked, as a trainee graduate metallurgist in England, in 1937-39.

There is nothing discreditable to the Chinese in this. The Wuhan Iron and Steel Company may be 25 years behind the times but not so long ago industrial China was 2,000 years behind. It did not exist at all.

All the same, the Chinese are not content. The planned output, they told us, is three million tons of steel a year. Very good; when would this target be achieved? This was one question they could not or would not answer. When pressed, they estimated the present output of this particular plant at one and a half million tons. But that didn't matter; what counted was the three million of tomorrow.

There were six open hearth steel furnaces but only Nos. 1 and 5 were working. This was a rather low proportion of the steelmaking capacity. One answer for this soon became apparent. The heavy rolling mill, we were told, will produce rails, girders, plate, sheet and tubes.

They are proud of their rolling mill but—it is not yet built.

Today the main output is pig iron from the three blast furnaces and cast iron, largely in the form of parts for agricultural machinery.

Still, they do produce steel, bar, rod and strip. And since they started from scratch six years ago, this is a miracle in itself.

Our travelling group encountered this confusion between achievement and future reality all over China. At a children's palace in Shanghai—Where middle school children come after hours for the usual cultural and recreational activities with a strong ideological tinge, we asked if they were especially selected.

Of course not, we were told: all children can come. Yet among the hundreds there was not one who did not wear the red neck scarf of the Pioneers, the young Communist society.

There was no conscious deception here. The Chinese really wished to believe that the children's palace was open to all, just as they wished to believe that every Chinese citizen is free to choose his own work and to come and go as he pleases. As with some other peoples, what they tell themselves three times is true.

Shadyside Group Airs Road Plans

A Citizens Committee working for the improvement of Shadyside Ave. and Campground Rd. expressed some dissatisfaction with work to be undertaken by City Council and county commissioners at a special meeting Monday night at the Liverpool Township Grange Hall.

Charles Prince, chairman, said the committee was grateful for the plan to fill the chuck holes and resurface the pavement this year but was dissatisfied because the road will be widened only in a few places.

The proposed improvement will not correct a water problem which will prevent the blacktop from holding, Prince said, and will result in the same condition that exists at present.

The committee has been promised, however, that major improvements will be undertaken next year, Prince said.

Salem Man's Vote Boosted In New Count

A recount of Salem's May 7 primary election returns made Tuesday afternoon by the County Election Board widened the margin by which Solicitor Thomas H. Coe won renomination on the Republican ticket over his lone opponent, Atty. Scott McCorkhill.

The unofficial returns and the official canvass gave the race to Coe with a 2-vote margin, but the new tabulation increased his lead to 6. The new tabulation of returns from all 23 Salem precincts showed:

Coe	504
McCorkhill	498

Coe picked up 2 votes in the recount — petitioned by McCorkhill —while the contender had a net loss of 2.

The recount, launched at 1:30, was completed at 3. The precinct crews' tabulations stood up unchanged in 20 of the 23 instances. Changes were shown in the count in only three polling places.

"Generally speaking, the precinct count stood up surprisingly well," Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, commented after the tabulation was completed.

All four members of the Election Board participated in the new count. They are Carl L. Stacey, chairman, and Don R. Gosney, both Columbiana Democrats, and Atty. James L. McSweeney of Wellsville and Atty. Charles A. Pike of Lisbon, Republicans.

The board members alternated in leafing through the ballots and calling the names of the two contenders, while the tally was kept by two members of the board's staff, Mrs. Hillis Conner and Miss Rebecca Resnick.

The recount cost McCorkhill $115, as the board assessed the minimum charge of $5 per precinct allowed by state law. It could have charged him a maximum of $10 a precinct.

When filing the recount application May 13, McCorkhill was required to post a $230 surety, equivalent to $10 for each of the 23 precincts. After deducting the $115 charge for the recount, the board refunded $115 to the applicant.

In any precinct where the contender's vote was changed by 4 per cent, there would have been no charge. However, none of the totals changed sufficiently to allow him a "free" precinct, O'Hanlon pointed out.

Ohio Juvenile Officer To Face Jury Action

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — William C. Humphrey, 40, Ohio juvenile parole officer, faces grand jury action on a charge of accepting a bribe.

Judge Frank Wessel ordered him bound to the grand jury under $1,000 bond Tuesday on a charge of taking $70 from a Hamilton woman to use his influence in getting her grandson released from Boys Industrial School. Humphrey, of Cincinnati, pleaded innocent.

Officers Are Inducted For West Point PTA

WEST POINT — Mrs. Veronica Wolski, president of the Columbiana County PTA Council, installed officers for the West Point PTA following a coverdish dinner at the school Monday evening.

Seated were William Conrad, president; Dean Wain, vice president; Mrs. Frank Hare, treasurer, and Mrs. Margaret Ronshak, secretary. Next meeting is Sept. 16.

Salem Man's Vote Boosted In New Count

A recount of Salem's May 7 primary election returns made Tuesday afternoon by the County Election Board widened the margin by which Solicitor Thomas H. Coe won renomination on the Republican ticket over his lone opponent, Atty. Scott McCorkhill.

The unofficial returns and the official canvass gave the race to Coe with a 2-vote margin, but the new tabulation increased his lead to 6. The new tabulation of returns from all 23 Salem precincts showed:

Coe	504
McCorkhill	498

Coe picked up 2 votes in the recount — petitioned by McCorkhill —while the contender had a net loss of 2.

The recount, launched at 1:30, was completed at 3. The precinct crews' tabulations stood up unchanged in 20 of the 23 instances. Changes were shown in the count in only three polling places.

"Generally speaking, the precinct count stood up surprisingly well," Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, commented after the tabulation was completed.

All four members of the Election Board participated in the new count. They are Carl L. Stacey, chairman, and Don R. Gosney, both Columbiana Democrats, and Atty. James L. McSweeney of Wellsville and Atty. Charles A. Pike of Lisbon, Republicans.

The board members alternated in leafing through the ballots and calling the names of the two contenders, while the tally was kept by two members of the board's staff, Mrs. Hillis Conner and Miss Rebecca Resnick.

The recount cost McCorkhill $115, as the board assessed the minimum charge of $5 per precinct allowed by state law. It could have charged him a maximum of $10 a precinct.

When filing the recount application May 13, McCorkhill was required to post a $230 surety, equivalent to $10 for each of the 23 precincts. After deducting the $115 charge for the recount, the board refunded $115 to the applicant.

In any precinct where the contender's vote was changed by 4 per cent, there would have been no charge. However, none of the totals changed sufficiently to allow him a "free" precinct, O'Hanlon pointed out.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A statewide rally of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was scheduled at the Statehouse today to protest the apparent death in the General Assembly of a fair housing act.

Martin Funeral Home
145 West Fifth Street Dial FU 5-3650
East Liverpool, Ohio

Dear friends,

In the absence of pre-arrangement, the next of kin alone has the right to choose the funeral director and to decide the funeral arrangements.

No one should attempt to influence or usurp this right of choice.

Advice should be given only when asked, as the selection of a funeral director is a very personal matter.

Respectfully,

Richard C. Martin

At Annual Recognition Dinner

Chamber Fetes Honor Students Of 5 Schools

More than 80 attended the annual student recognition dinner of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night at the Travelers Hotel, at which "certificates of achievement" were presented seniors representing the top 10 per cent of the graduating classes at East Liverpool, Beaver Local, Chester, Newell and South Side High Schools.

The Chamber program, arranged by its education committee, honored 56 students from the five high schools.

Maloney, chairman of the education committee, presided. Ogilvie, gave brief remarks and welcomed the students.

Maloney introduced faculty representatives from each school and E. R. Chandler, executive manager, presented the Chamber representatives, including members of the Board of Trustees, committee chairmen and other members of the education committee.

It was the third consecutive year the Chamber has paid tribute to top area graduates. School flags were massed near the speaker's table as part of the decorative theme. Strips of crepe paper in the schools' colors and pompom decorations in the same theme were used to decorate the tables. Students were identified with name tags and small replicas of their school's colors.

Principals attending were: George Hargraves of East Liverpool; R. M. McFarland of Chester and E. Russell Slack of Wells High at Newell. Kenneth Kurtz represented Charles P. Henderson, South Side principal, and Ernest Skidmore appeared on behalf of Lee A. Kirkland of Beaver Local.

Judge Continues Weirton Hearing

NEW CUMBERLAND — A hearing originally set for Tuesday in Hancock County Circuit Court on a mandamus action challenging the results of the First Ward Council race in Weirton's primary May 7 has been continued until Thursday morning at 10.

Judge James G. McClure continued the case to allow one of the attorneys time to prepare and file briefs.

Atty. Leonard Z. Alpert, representing Norman Orwasky, seeks a writ to compel the Weirton city clerk to strike the name of Clifford A. Lami, 36, from the ballot for the Weirton general election June 4.

Lami finished ahead of Orwasky in the primary balloting and was nominated along with incumbent Pete Sokolowski for the general election.

Orwasky claims Lami failed to meet election rules of not being a resident of Weirton for at least five years prior to the primary as required.

Injured Fatally

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Frederick Furr, 46, of nearby Chauncey, was injured fatally Tuesday when his automobile collided with another car on U.S. 50 about 3½ miles east of Canaanville, Joseph Cunningham of Stewart and four passengers in his automobile were injured and taken to Sheltering Arms Hospital here.

Palestine Driver Cited In Mishap Near Unity

Ralph W. Heck, 68, of East Palestine R. D. 2 was cited by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon Tuesday afternoon when his pickup truck rammed the rear of another on Route 14 near Unity.

Officers said a pickup truck operated by Delmar J. Freed, 42, of East Palestine R. D. 1 had halted for oncoming traffic while waiting to make a turn, and Heck's truck struck its rear.

No one was hurt. Heck was charged with failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

$1,000 Damage Listed In Salineville Mishap

SALINEVILLE — Martha K. Hanley, 25, of Summitville was cited Tuesday afternoon at 1:40 after her car rammed the side of another auto on Jefferson St., causing about $1,000 damage.

Police Chief Roy Lewis said her 1960 sedan entered Jefferson St. from a side street and hit the side of a passing auto operated by Robert Call, 26, of East Springfield. She said she halted for a stop sign, then pulled onto the street.

Charged with failure to yield the right-of-way, she is slated for a hearing Saturday before Mayor Stanley Fitch. Each car received about $500 damage, Chief Lewis said.

At Annual Recognition Dinner

Chamber Fetes Honor Students Of 5 Schools

More than 80 attended the annual student recognition dinner of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night at the Travelers Hotel, at which "certificates of achievement" were presented seniors representing the top 10 per cent of the graduating classes at East Liverpool, Beaver Local, Chester, Newell and South Side High Schools.

The Chamber program, arranged by its education committee, honored 56 students from the five high schools.

Maloney, chairman of the education committee, presided. Ogilvie, gave brief remarks and welcomed the students.

Maloney introduced faculty representatives from each school and E. R. Chandler, executive manager, presented the Chamber representatives, including members of the Board of Trustees, committee chairmen and other members of the education committee.

It was the third consecutive year the Chamber has paid tribute to top area graduates. School flags were massed near the speaker's table as part of the decorative theme. Strips of crepe paper in the schools' colors and pompom decorations in the same theme were used to decorate the tables. Students were identified with name tags and small replicas of their school's colors.

Donald Honicky gave the invocation.

Principals attending were: George Hargraves of East Liverpool; R. M. McFarland of Chester and E. Russell Slack of Wells High at Newell. Kenneth Kurtz represented Charles P. Henderson, South Side principal, and Ernest Skidmore appeared on behalf of Lee A. Kirkland of Beaver Local.

Judge Continues Weirton Hearing

NEW CUMBERLAND — A hearing originally set for Tuesday in Hancock County Circuit Court on a mandamus action challenging the results of the First Ward Council race in Weirton's primary May 7 has been continued until Thursday morning at 10.

Judge James G. McClure continued the case to allow one of the attorneys time to prepare and file briefs.

Atty. Leonard Z. Alpert, representing Norman Orwasky, seeks a writ to compel the Weirton city clerk to strike the name of Clifford A. Lami, 36, from the ballot for the Weirton general election June 4.

Lami finished ahead of Orwasky in the primary balloting and was nominated along with incumbent Pete Sokolowski for the general election.

Orwasky claims Lami failed to meet election rules of not being a resident of Weirton for at least five years prior to the primary as required.

SALINEVILLE — Martha K. Hanley, 25, of Summitville was cited Tuesday afternoon at 1:40 after her car rammed the side of another auto on Jefferson St., causing about $1,000 damage.

Rotary Hears Buzzard

Judge Explains Court Revision

Highlights of a plan calling for an overhaul of Ohio's court system — from the county level to the State Supreme Court — were reviewed by Judge Raymond S. Buzzard at the Rotary Club's meeting Tuesday in the Travelers Hotel.

The reorganization plan under study by the State Bar Association is designed to unify and integrate the county court systems and is to be presented to the State Legislature for consideration in 1963, the Lisbon Common Pleas Court jurist said.

BASICALLY, the proposal is intended to eliminate overlapping of functions and jurisdiction by county courts and municipal, Common Pleas and appeals courts.

It would shift local autonomy of the court to the State Supreme Court in Columbus, giving that tribunal administrative power to make rules and govern all courts beneath it.

Under the plan, the high court would have the authority to discipline lower court judges and assign them from one county to another. The proposal would also slash the number of habeas corpus actions now "flooding" the high court, and limit the number of original actions filed before the high body.

Although the plan would make but one significant change in the court of appeals, it would change considerably the county court system, Judge Buzzard explained.

A NEED HAS existed for some time to improve the state's court system, and the plan would incorporate the best features of systems in other states, the jurist said.

But improving the present system is a "very slow process," Judge Buzzard said, pointing out there is reluctancy and a conservative approach to changing the fundamentals.

The State Bar Association named a committee to study deficiencies of the present court system four years ago, and reports on the progress are filed from time to time, Judge Buzzard said.

The committee has come up with a proposal that appears to incorporate the best features of other court systems throughout the land, he said.

JUDGE Buzzard said one of the disadvantages appears to be removing the local autonomy of the courts and placing it in Columbus.

With the State Supreme Court having the power to assign judges from one county to another, some fear they would become the "Have Bag, Will Travel" type and be "on the go" all the time, Judge Buzzard declared.

But the advantages would include increased efficiency of the courts, particularly on the state level, and elimination of overlapping of jurisdiction in the lower courts, he said.

The state supreme court now has no disciplinary measures for lower judges and the feature of the plan providing the power to remove by a commission appears to be one of the big points in the proposal, Judge Buzzard said.

"TODAY, EVERY county court judge is his own boss, and answers only to the electors. But six years is a long wait for someone who is not doing his job," the jurist pointed out.

The plan also provides that a member of the Appeals Court can be named to the Supreme Court to serve in the illness of a member, thereby eliminating divided, 3-3 decisions.

"There are no significant changes in the Court of Appeals except in cases of death sentence, when an appeal can be filed with the State Supreme Court," the jurist continued.

"Presently, one can file a motion of legal appeal and the State Supreme Court can deny a review."

Judge Buzzard spoke at length on changes the proposal would make in the county court system.

IT WOULD unify all courts in the county, and combine them into one unit. The single court would be staffed by the number of judges provided by law, plus probate and juvenile judges. There would be a chief judge to provide for "better administration and keep things moving," Judge Buzzard said.

Other judges, such as municipal judges, would become associate judges and be assigned whenever needed, performing the duties now done by those on the county and municipal levels.

Tenure of judges would remain at six years. But the new plan provides that when a jurist reaches 70, he would no longer be eligible for re-election.

Giving the Supreme Court the power to transfer assignments appears to be one of the points of opposition. The state would assume the responsibility of salary costs, instead of only sharing in the payments as of now. With it would go the power of suspension of lower court judges in case of drunkenness or immoral behavior.

ANOTHER FEATURE of the State Bar Association's plan would remove judges from politics entirely, in contrast to the present practice where candidates run in the primary on a party ticket and, if nominated, run in the general election as non-partisan.

Judge Buzzard, a club member, also explained House Bill 22, which parallels the reorganization plan of the State Bar Association. Already introduced in the House, it is under study by the rules committee.

"The bill appears somewhat in conflict with the other proposal, but it deals only with the method of selecting judges," the jurist explained.

The bill provides that judges of the State Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals would be appointed and not elected.

COUNTIES would have local option on appointment or election of judges. The ballot would not list the name of a candidate, rather a question, "Shall Judge Jones be retained as County Judge?" If the "no's" prevail, the incumbent would not be eligible to seek his post for another five years.

Judge Buzzard was introduced by Sidney C. Porter Jr., president. E. R. Chandler announced that members are invited to a conducted tour of the Beaver Creek Park Area Sunday. There will be a lunch at Gaston's Mills to be served by women of the Clarkson Grange, and the fee is $1.25, he said.

4 Killed In Flaming Collision Of 2 Cars

CINCINNATI (AP)—Four persons were killed early today in a fiery collision of two automobiles on the Mill Creek Expressway (I-75) in suburban St. Bernard.

Two of the victims were burned beyond recognition. The other two were identified by St. Bernard police as Albert Hart and Sam Buglione, both of Cincinnati.

St. Bernard police said one car in which a man and woman were riding was southbound and failed to make a curve on the expressway. It swerved into the center median strip, hit two utility poles and then collided with a northbound car in the opposite lane.

Hookstown Farmers Survey Cards Ready

Postmaster Olive Floyd of Hookstown said that 1963 livestock cards are being distributed by the mail carriers to a sample of the farmers in the area.

The survey is one of two statewide to estimate the number of livestock on farms, livestock products, size of pig, lamb, calves and wool crops, and the number of chickens raised.

Mrs. Floyd urged each farmer to complete the cards and return them to the mail carrier as soon as possible.

Wetzel Bill Passed By Ohio Senate, 31-0

COLUMBUS — The Ohio Senate passed without dissent Tuesday a bill by Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel, R-Columbiana, giving local courts jurisdiction in appeals from state fire marshal orders.

The bill, passed 31-0, eliminates a requirement that all fire marshal appeals be heard in Franklin County Common Pleas Court (Columbus).

Wetzel has contended that existing law is a burden on property owners who want to protest condemnation orders in counties outside Franklin County.

The bill passed the House 125-1 last month. It now goes to the governor for signing.

Rotary Hears Buzzard

Judge Explains Court Revision

Highlights of a plan calling for an overhaul of Ohio's court system — from the county level to the State Supreme Court — were reviewed by Judge Raymond S. Buzzard at the Rotary Club's meeting Tuesday in the Travelers Hotel.

The reorganization plan under study by the State Bar Association is designed to unify and integrate the county court systems and is to be presented to the State Legislature for consideration in 1965, the Lisbon Common Pleas Court jurist said.

BASICALLY, the proposal is intended to eliminate overlapping of functions and jurisdiction by county courts and municipal, Common Pleas and appeals courts.

It would shift local autonomy of the court to the State Supreme Court in Columbus, giving that tribunal administrative power to make rules and govern all courts beneath it.

Under the plan, the high court would have the authority to discipline lower court judges and assign them from one county to another. The proposal would also slash the number of habeas corpus actions now "flooding" the high court, and limit the number of original actions filed before the high body.

Although the plan would make but one significant change in the court of appeals, it would change considerably the county court system, Judge Buzzard explained.

A NEED HAS existed for some time to improve the state's court system, and the plan would incorporate the best features of systems in other states, the jurist said.

But improving the present system is a "very slow process," Judge Buzzard said, pointing out there is reluctancy and a conservative approach to changing the fundamentals.

The State Bar Association named a committee to study deficiencies of the present court system four years ago, and reports on the progress are filed from time to time, Judge Buzzard said.

The committee has come up with a proposal that appears to incorporate the best features of other court systems throughout the land, he said.

JUDGE Buzzard said one of the disadvantages appears to be removing the local autonomy of the courts and placing it in Columbus.

With the State Supreme Court having the power to assign judges from one county to another, some fear they would become the "Have Bag, Will Travel" type and be "on the go" all the time, Judge Buzzard declared.

But the advantages would include increased efficiency of the courts, particularly on the state level, and elimination of overlapping of jurisdiction in the lower courts, he said.

The state supreme court now has no disciplinary measures for lower judges and the feature of the plan providing the power to remove by a commission appears to be one of the big points in the proposal, Judge Buzzard said.

"TODAY, EVERY county court judge is his own boss, and answers only to the electors. But six years is a long wait for someone who is not doing his job," the jurist pointed out.

The plan also provides that a member of the Appeals Court can be named to the Supreme Court to serve in the illness of a member, thereby eliminating divided 3-3 decisions.

"There are no significant changes in the Court of Appeals except in cases of death sentence, when an appeal can be filed with the State Supreme Court," the jurist continued.

"Presently, one can file a motion of legal appeal and the State Supreme Court can deny a review."

Judge Buzzard spoke at length on changes the proposal would make in the county court system.

IT WOULD unify all courts in the county, and combine them into one unit. The single court would be staffed by the number of judges provided by law, plus probate and juvenile judges. There would be a chief judge to provide for "better administration and keep things moving," Judge Buzzard said.

Other judges, such as municipal judges, would become associate judges and be assigned whenever needed, performing the duties now done by those on the county and municipal levels.

Tenure of judges would remain at six years. But the new plan provides that when a jurist reaches 70, he would no longer be eligible for re-election,

Giving the Supreme Court the power to transfer assignments appears to be one of the points of opposition. The state would assume the responsibility of salary costs, instead of only sharing in the payments as of now. With it would go the power of suspension of lower court judges in case of drunkenness or immoral behavior.

ANOTHER FEATURE of the State Bar Association's plan would remove judges from politics entirely, in contrast to the present practice where candidates run in the primary on a party ticket and, if nominated, run in the general election as non-partisan.

Judge Buzzard, a club member, also explained House Bill 32, which parallels the reorganization plan of the State Bar Association. Already introduced in the House, it is under study by the rules committee.

"The bill appears somewhat in conflict with the other proposal, but it deals only with the method of selecting judges," the jurist explained.

The bill provides that judges of the State Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals would be appointed and not elected.

COUNTIES would have local option on appointment or election of judges. The ballot would not list the name of a candidate, rather a question, "Shall Judge Jones be retained as County Judge?" If the "no's" prevail, the incumbent would not be eligible to seek his post for another five years.

Judge Buzzard was introduced by Sidney U. Porter Jr., president. E. R. Chandler announced that members are invited to a conducted tour of the Beaver Creek Park Area Sunday. There will be a lunch at Gaston's Mills to be served by women of the Clarkson Grange, and the fee is $1.25, he said.

4 Killed In Flaming Collision Of 2 Cars

CINCINNATI (AP)—Four persons were killed early today in a fiery collision of two automobiles on the Mill Creek Expressway (I-75) in suburban St. Bernard.

Two of the victims were burned beyond recognition. The other two were identified by St. Bernard police as Albert Hart and Sam Buglione, both of Cincinnati.

St. Bernard police said one car in which a man and woman were riding was southbound and failed to make a curve on the expressway. It swerved into the center median strip, hit two utility poles and then collided with a northbound car in the opposite lane.

Hookstown Farmers Survey Cards Ready

Postmaster Olive Floyd of Hookstown said that 1963 livestock cards are being distributed by the mail carriers to a sample of the farmers in the area.

The survey is one of two statewide to estimate the number of livestock on farms, livestock products, size of pig, lamb, calves and wool crops, and the number of chickens raised.

Mrs. Floyd urged each farmer to complete the cards and return them to the mail carrier as soon as possible.

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

—:—

THE ECONOMY: Government spending and a buildup in business inventories were cited as the big factors in expansion of the economy in the year's first quarter.

At 8:30 p.m., the President is scheduled to attend a political fund-raising banquet.

Salinger said it was also possible the President will have several private business appointments before flying back to Washington late Friday.

GOING UP: On Thursday, Trans World Airlines will put in effect a 5 per cent increase in economy round trip fares between the United States and Italy.

The higher fares had been ordered by the International Air Transport Association despite protests here. Similar increases already have been made in fares to Great Britain, Switzerland, France, Germany and Portugal.

Wetzel Bill Passed By Ohio Senate, 31-0

COLUMBUS — The Ohio Senate passed without dissent Tuesday a bill by Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel, R-Columbiana, giving local courts jurisdiction in appeals from state fire marshal orders.

The bill, passed 31-0, eliminates a requirement that all fire marshal appeals be heard in Franklin County Common Pleas Court (Columbus).

Wetzel has contended that existing law is a burden on property owners who want to protest condemnation orders in counties outside Franklin County.

The bill passed the House 125-1 last month. It now goes to the governor for signing.

Man Wins Verdict Against U.S. Steel

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Clay Slick of Aurora has been awarded an $80,000 verdict in Common Pleas Court in a suit against U.S. Steel Corp. His hand was crushed in an industrial accident at the steel company's McDonald plant.

QUESTION: Why doesn't asbestos burn?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: It's not the rocks but the boys who are stupid, you'll be thinking — everyone knows that rocks don't burn! Right; but the boys are giving us the answer to the question. A very long time ago, uptilting rock masses broke through the surface of the earth leaving cracks in many places (1). Later, water carrying dissolved minerals settled in the cracks (2). After the water evaporated or drained off, the minerals were left. Certain of these materials, especially forms of serpentine, after long periods of heat and pressure, formed into fibers like tiny threads (3). These can be taken from the surrounding rock and spun into cloth. These asbestos fibers are used in many ways. Asbestos conducts electricity slowly and so is used in manufacturing insulated products. But the chief value of asbestos is for making fireproof articles, such as the flame-proof suit in last picture. Why does asbestos resist flame? Because it's a form of rock, and — to go back to the beginning of the story — we all know that rock won't burn!

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Don't try to start a campfire with rocks, of course; but it's a very good idea to cover your campfire with rocks after you've put it out with water. You'll be leaving a fireproof covering to prevent any fire from rekindling.

★ ★ ★

Wellsville Street Lights Installed

The installation of 24 new street lights in various locations and increasing of power in others has been completed, Councilman William Stroble, street and light chairman, reported at a meeting of Wellsville City Council Tuesday night.

The project was launched in April and was expected to take 60 days. Council approved the installation at the first meeting in April and the work was started almost immediately by the Ohio Power Co.

The project will cost $833.20 a year, or $763.20 for new lights and $120 for the increased power in others.

SITES OF the new lights are Main St. between 18th and 19th Sts.; Buckeye Ave., between 19th and 20th Sts.; Danbury Ave., between 20th and 21st Sts. (two lights); corner of 19th and Danbury; 14th, 12th, and 11th Sts., between Commerce and Buckeye, and Bukckeye between 9th and 10th Sts.

11th and 12th Sts. in an alley from Commerce to Anderson Ave.; 12th St. between Main and Riverside Ave.; in Maple Alley between 7th and 8th Sts.; Buckeye, between 7th and 8th; the alley behind the Daw Junior High School; Commerce, between 5th and 6th; Broadway, between 5th and 6th and between 4th and 5th; corner of 2nd and 3rd Sts.; Wells Ave. to Highland Ave. (two lights); Buckeye, between 3rd and 4th, and the corner of the alley behind the River Museum and 19th St.

Power was increased on four lights on Broadway between 3rd and 5th Sts. and on seven lights on Riverside between 3rd and 9th Sts.

IN OTHER business, Council approved legislation authorizing Safety - Service Director Fred Baldasare to advertise for bids on the improvement of several streets by contract. They will be seal-coated and some scarified, slagged and sealed. The Board of Control will let the contract. The streets were listed at the last meeting.

Council also ordered legislation authorizing the director to seek bids for the installation of separate two-way radio systems for the police and fire departments. According to federal law, they must be operating on separate bands by October.

Bids will be sought on a cash purchase and on a "pay-as-you-go" basis. Councilman Donald Miller, finance chairman, made the recommendation. He said the bids will permit Council to determine exactly how much money will be needed and where it can be obtained.

MILLER also reported that the parking meter collection for April was the third highest on record. The total was $1,058.28. The most ever collected was $1,076.70 in September 1962.

Miller asked the street and light committee to investigate the railroad crossings on Wood St. and 10th St., which are in bad condition.

Permission was granted Everett D. Andrews to break curbing for a driveway into a garage at 2102 Clark Ave. The work must be done under the supervision of the service director.

Council appointed Fire Chief Robert W. Lewis to the Hammond Park Commission to fill the unexpired term of his late father. The recommendation was made by the commission.

COUNCILMAN Robert Taggart, water and sewage chairman, reported he met with the service director to check delinquent water bills. There are a couple of large bills outstanding, but most of the delinquent accounts are being paid, he said.

He said this is big project and he will report on it at every meeting until all the back bills have been paid. Mrs. Mary Rahter, Council president, said many persons had complained they do not believe it fair that some persons pay and others are allowed to get off without paying.

Councilman Dwight MacLean asked the street and light committee to check the curbing and sidewalk at 17th St. and Clark Ave. Big trucks making the turn are running up over the curb, causing it to crumble, he said.

Residents of Clark Ave. appeared to complain that trucks cause a vibration in their homes. Council received similar complaints at the last meeting. The bricks have "rippled" and when the big trucks hit these spots, the homes are shaken.

STROBLE said this had been referred to Baldasare and should have been taken care of.

Miller pointed out that with the lack of manpower in the city it takes time to get to some of these projects. He said he believes the director is capable of correcting the situation if given proper time. "He has done several things around here people said couldn't be done," Miller said.

Stroble also urged that the city's beautification campaign between 13th and 18th St. be speeded. He said it has come to a slow halt. The area was cleared previously. Stroble said he saw a truck parked on 17th St. and commented the area is "not to be used as a parking lot."

The director was authorized to place a stop sign on Maple Ave. at 17th St.

COUNCIL also received complaints from residents of 18th and Clark, who said truckers stop there at a restaurant and leave their motors running. The diesel smoke then fills the homes, the residents complained.

Police Chief John Hephner, when questioned, said there is no ordinance against leaving a motor running.

After a discussion, legislation against an "unattended motor" was ordered.

Complaints of drag racing and speeding on Clark also were aired Hephner said the city's radar equipment is not in operating condition. He said it is the old style that must be rechecked each six months. It has to be sent away and it takes three months to get it back, he said.

THE DIRECTOR was asked to check an open storm sewer at 21st and Clark which is clogged. The water and sewage committee will investigate the possibility of closing the ditch.

The ordinance committee was asked to check on legislation governing the operation of "track rabbits" within the city limits. They are small, motor-operated carts. Solicitor William Bush said there is an anti-noise ordinance and one on disturbing the peace, which could be used, he said.

Councilman Frank DeLonzo was absent.

2 Sentenced, Fined In Illegal Jobless Aid

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Municipal Court Judge Albert W. Hayer has handed down 10-day suspended jail sentences to five men who pleaded guilty to illegally receiving unemployment compensation from the state.

The judge also fined each man $10 Tuesday and ordered them to repay the money.

An Ohio of Unemployment Compensation investigator said four of the men failed to report income received by themselves or their wives while collecting BUC checks and the fifth falsely claimed a dependent.

Man, 34, Sentenced To Death In Chair

CLEVELAND (AP) — William Bradley, 34, has been sentenced to die in the electric chair Oct. 17 for a shotgun slaying that stemmed from a card game.

Bradley was found guilty Monday of first-degree murder in the death of John Chambers, 23.

According to testimony in the jury trial, Bradley had accused Chambers of cheating him of $1, went home and got a gun with which he killed Chambers. Bradley said he was drunk at the time of the shooting Jan. 5.

The sentence was pronounced Tuesday by Common Pleas Court Judge Victory Cohen.

QUESTION: Why doesn't asbestos burn?

ANSWER: It's not the rocks but the boys who are stupid, you'll be thinking — everyone knows that rocks don't burn! Right; but the boys are giving us the answer to the question. A very long time ago, uptilting rock masses broke through the surface of the earth leaving cracks in many places (1). Later, water carrying dissolved minerals settled in the cracks (2). After the water evaporated or drained off, the minerals were left. Certain of these materials, especially forms of serpentine, after long periods of heat and pressure, formed into fibers like tiny threads (3). These can be taken from the surrounding rock and spun into cloth. These asbestos fibers are used in many ways. Asbestos conducts electricity slowly and so is used in manufacturing insulated products. But the chief value of asbestos is for making fireproof articles, such as the flame-proof suit in last picture. Why does asbestos resist flame? Because it's a form of rock, and — to go back to the beginning of the story — we all know that rock won't burn!

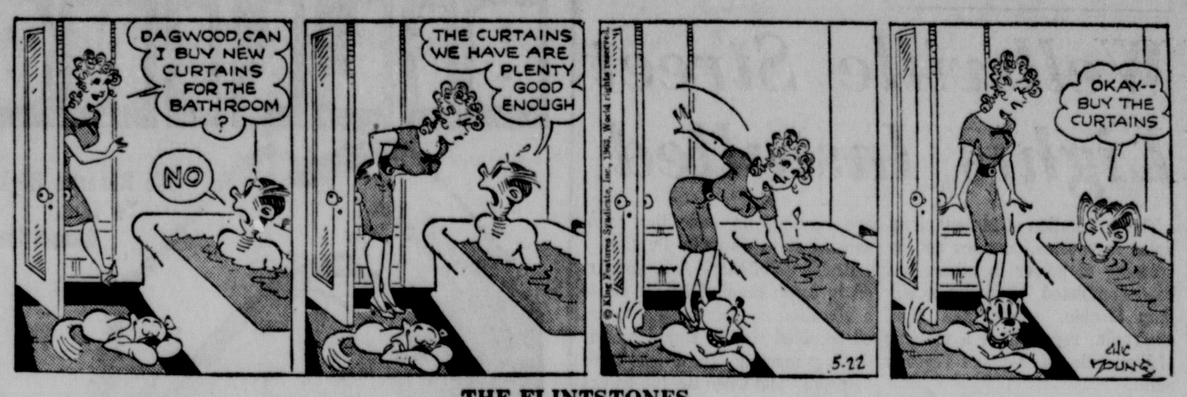

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Don't try to start a campfire with rocks, of course; but it's a very good idea to cover your campfire with rocks after you've put it out with water. You'll be leaving a fireproof covering to prevent any fire from rekindling.
